ONE MILLION OF LIVES SAVED.

It is one of the remarkable facts of this remarkable age, not merely that so many persons are the victims of dyspepsia or indigestion, but its willing victims. Now, we would not be understood to say that any one regards dyspepsia with favor, or feels disposed to rank it among the luxuries of life. Far from it. Those who have experienced its torments would scout such an idea. All dread it, and would gladly dispense with its unpleasant familiarities. Mark Tapley, who was jolly under all the trying circumstances in which he was placed, never had an attack of dyspepsia, or his jollity would have speedily forsaken him. Men and women sometimes suffer its tortures uncomplainingly, but whoever heard of a person who enjoyed them?

Of all the multifarious diseases to which the human system is liable, there is perhaps no one so generally prevalent as dyspepsia. There are diseases more acute and painful, and which more frequently prove fatal; but none, the effects of which are so depressing to the mind and so positively distressing to the body. If there is a wretched being in the world it is

A CONFIRMED DYSPEPTIC.

But it is not our intention to discant on the horrors of Dyspepsia. To describe them truthfully is simply an impossibility, but it is not possible to point out a remedy. We have said that dyspepsia is perhaps the most universal of human diseases. This is emphatically the case in the United States. Whether this general prevalence is due to the character of the food, the method of its preparation, or the hasty manner in which it is usually swallowed, is not our province to explain. The great fact with which we are called to deal is this almost universallly.

Nearly every other person you meet is a victim, an apparently willing one: for were this not the case, why so many sufferers, when a certain, speedy and safe remedy is within the easy reach of all who desire to avail themselves of it? But the majority will not. Blinded by prejudice, or deterred by some other unexplained influence, they refuse to accept the relief proffered them. They turn a deaf ear to the testimony of the thousands whose sufferings have been alleviated, and with strange infatuation, appear to cling with desperate determination to their ruthless tormentor. But says a dyspeptic: What is this remedy? to which we reply: This great alleviator of human suffering is almost as widely known as the English language. It has allayed the agonies of thousands, and is to-day carrying comfort and encouragement to thousands of others. The acknowledged panacea is none other than

DR. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.

Would you know more of the merits of this wonderful medicine than be can learned from the experience of others? Try it yourself, and when it has failed to fulfil the assurance of its efficacy given by the proprietor, than abandon faith in it.

LET IT BE REMEMBERED,

first of all, that HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS is not a rum beverage.

They are not alcoholic in any sense of the term. They are composed wholly of the pure juice or vital principle of roots. This is not a mere assertion. The extracts from which they are compounded are prepared by one of the ablest of German chemists. Unlike any other Bitters in the market, they are wholly free from spirituous ingredients. The objections which hold with so much force against preparations of this class, namely—that a desire of intoxicating drinks is stimulated by their use, are not valid in the case of the German Bitters. So far from encouraging or inculcating a taste or desire for inebriating beverages, it may be confidentially asserted that there tendency is in a diametrically opposite direction. Their effects can be in all cases of the biliary system. Hoofland's German Bitters stand without an equal, acting promptly and vigorously upon the Liver; they remove its torpidity and cause healthful secretion of bile—thereby supplying the stomach with the most indispensable elements of sound digestion in proper proportions. They give tone to the stomach—stimulating its functions, and enabling it to perform its duties as nature designed it should do. They impart vigor and strength to the entire system, causing the patient to feel like another being—in fact giving him a new lease of life.

THEY PURIFY THE BLOOD,

cleansing the vital fluid of all hurtful impurities and supplanting them with the elements of genuine healthfulness. In a word, there is scarcely a disease in which they cannot be safely and beneficially employed, but in that most generally prevalent distressing and dreaded disease, Dyspepsia,

THEY STAND UNRIVALLED.

Now there are certain classes of persons to whom extreme Bitters are not only unpalatable, but who find it impossible to take them without positive discomfort. For such has been specially prepared. It is intended for use where a slight alcoholic stimulent is required in connection with the well-known tonic properties of the pure German Bitters. This Tonic contains all the ingredients of the Bitters, but so flavored as to remove the extreme bitterness. This preparation is not only palatable, but combines in modified form, all the virtues of the German Bitters. The solid extracts of some of Nature's choicest restoratives are held in solution by a spirituous agent of the purest quality. In cases of langour or excessive debility, where the system appears to have become exhausted of its energies,

HOOFLAND'S TONIC

acts with almost marvelous effect. It not only stimulates the flagging and wasting energies, but invigorates and permanently strengthens its action upon the Liver and Stomach thorough, perhaps less prompt than the Bitters, when the same quantity is taken is none the less certain. Indigestion, Billiousness, Physical or Nervous Prostration, yield readily to its potent influence. It gives the invalid a new and stronger hold upon life, removes depression of spirits, and inspires cheerfulness. It supplants the pain of disease with the ease and comfort of perfect health. It gives strength to weakness, throws despondency to the winds, and starts the restored invalid upon a new and gladsome career. But Dr. Hoofland's benefactions to the human race are not confined to his celebrated or his invaluable Tonic. He has prepared another medicine, which is rapidly winning its way to popular favor because of its intrinsic merits. This is a perfect substitute for mercury, without any of mercury's evil qualities.

GERMAN BITTERS,

These wonderful Pills, which are intended to act upon the Liver, are mainly composed of Podophyllin, or the VITAL PRINCIPLE OF THE MANDRAKE ROOT.

Now we desire the reader to distinctly understand that this extract of the Mandrake is many times more powerful than the Mandrake itself. It is the medicinal virtues of this health-giving plant in a perfectly pure and highly concentrated form. Hence it is that two of the Podophyllin Pills constitute a full dose, while anywhere six to eight or a handful of other preparations of the Mandrake are required. The Podophyllin stimulating its functions and causing it to make its biliary secretions in regular and proper quantities. The injurious results which invariably follow the use of mercury is entirely avoided by their use. But it is not upon the Liver only that their powers are exerted. The extract of Mandrake contained in them is skillfully combined with four other extracts, one of which acts upon the stomach, one upon the upper bowels, one upon the lower bowels, and one prevents any griping effect, thus producing a pill that influences the entire digestive and alimentary system, in an equal and harmonious manner, and its action entirely free from nausea, vomiting or griping pains common to all other purgatives.

Possessing these much desirable qualities, the Podophyllin becomes invaluable as a FAMILY MEDICINE.

No household should be without them. They are perfectly safe, require but two for an ordinary dose, are prompt and efficient in action, and when used in connection with Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, or Tonic, may be regarded as certain specifics in all cases of Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, or any of the disorders to which the system is ordinarily subject. The act upon the stomach and bowels, carrying off improper obstructions, while the Bitters or Tonic purify the blood, strengthen and invigorate the frame, give tone and appetite to the stomach, and thus build up the invalid anew.

Dr. Hoofland, having provided internal remedies, for diseases, has given the world one mainly for external application, in the wonderful preparation known as

DR. HOOFLAND'S GREEK OIL.

This Oil is a sovereign remedy for pains and aches of all kinds. Rheumatism, Neuralgia, Toothache, Chilblains, Sprains, Burns, Pain in the Back and Loins, Ringworms, &c., &c., all yield to its external application. The number of cures effected by it is astonishing, and they are increasing every day.

Taken internally, it is a cure for Heartburns, Kidney diseases, Sick-Headaches, Cholic, Dysentery, Cholera Morbus, Cramps, Pains in the Stomach, Colds, Asthma, &c.

The Greek Oil is composed entirely of healing gums and essential oils. The principal ingredient is an oily substance procured in the southern part of Greece. Its effects as a destroyer of pain are truly magical. Thousands have been benefitted by its use, and a trial by those who are skeptical will thoroughly convince them of its inestimable value.

These remedies will be sent by express to any locality, upon application to the PRINCIPAL OFFICE, at the GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, No. 631, ARCH STREET, PHILADELPHIA.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

THIRTY PROPOSALS.

A California Love Story.

"You don't say that is his wife? Well, she is a stunner, and no mistake. I confess to an overwhelming curiosity concerning that marriage. Why, in the States, he was considered an inveterate bachelor. Somehow, he never cared to go round with the girls like the rest of us did; but took his mother everywhere, and waited upon her as though she had been queen of England. All the girls liked him, and if he ever ventured where they were, they would flutter around him, but it was plain to be seen that he never gave them a second thought.

"His mother used to say: "If my son ever marries, 'twill be a very superior woman; quite different from the girls one ordinarily meets."

"When we heard at home that he was married, the girls said a little spitefully, I reckon, "There must be some wonderful woman in California," and they hoped she would be 'superior' enough to teach the old bachelor a lesson of two. How is it? Is she likely to?

"Well, there's more to her than you'd think, at first sight. She must be real good herself, or she never would have appreciated our friend. He is solid and substantial, but not very showy. I have known him intimately for years and I have never kown him to say or do any mean thing. He deserves his good luck, and I will own it though, to be honest, I wanted that woman to be my wife, and I can tell you I reached a point yet, where I can't ... over here under these trees, and I will tell you how it happened; but you'd better not let on you know it, for 'tis a sort of understood thing that we are to keep it on the square, and it's rather a tender subject with us boys.

"It was the summer of '60, we lived over the canon I was telling you about there were thirty of us in the gang, and we had four cabins with a storehouse, which were public property. We worked hard on week days, and on Sundays did our washing, and brought our housework up a little. I suppose we should be called a hard set, but we were not any rougher than men who get a living by themselves for a year or two.

"Eight of us camped together, and each of us had as distinct an individuality as though we had represented different nations. Somehow or other we had acquired a sobriquet, which was acknowledged to be characteristic, and we were called by it in camp to the complete ignoring of our own names.

"There was Hal Winterton, a Southerner, and a fierce secessionist; we called him 'South Carolina,' Dave Austin, a Connecticut man, and a regular sell, we called 'Nutmeg.' 'Dandie' stuck to Charlie Chapman, for he was a regular fop. There was Ned Simpson, a regular 'Aunt Betty' —you'd know his name at a glimpse without me saying a word.—Otis Allen would faint if he jammed his finger, or had a sight of blood. He was 'Our Baby.' Jack Cummings was a wag, and he certainly deserved his cognomen, 'Jack the Wicked,' Jim Woodruff was known all over the country by the appellation of 'Judge' and your humble servant, from his black eyes, swarthy complexion and jetty black locks, perhaps something too, in my manner, was styled 'Senor.'

"Well, we were a good-natured set of fellows, always making allowances for each other's peculiarities, and never having any friction in camp. Sometimes I used to think we joked 'Aunt Betty' and 'Our Baby' rather unmercifully, but one word from our 'Judge' would straighten us at once.

"If one was sick, we all took a turn about in nursing and watching, but the 'Judge' was always near to do it. Tender and patient as a woman, we all honored him, and held him in a little higher estimation than we did any one else in our camp.

"I forgot to tell you that a month before, and when 'Aunt Betty' and 'Our Baby' were not of our number, we had in their place Will Browning who was equal to two men any day. Good to work and good to play, as smart as need be, and true to the core. I think most any of us would have been glad to have gone with Will over the mountains; but he said, 'No, stay where you are boys; you are doing well; and if I find anything better, I will let you know at once; then come, all hands of you, and it will be a jolly time when we get together again.'

"You know it wasn't the pleasantest traveling in the world, getting around two years ago.

"We hadn't heard a word from Will, though he had been gone for a long time. Several letters had come for him, but, of course we couldn't forward them, having no idea of his whereabouts, and we had come to the conclusion that he would walk in upon us sometime dead broke, and cured of his roving disposition. We had finished work one day, and supped off 'three B's,' as we called our beans and bacon and bread; the table stood just where we had left it, for you know miners are not very fastidious in their notions. We were sitting on a long bench which reached across the end of our rude cabin, talking over our day's work, and speculating on what the boys were doing to the left side of us, when, all at once, a young woman stood right in our cabin door.

"Now, a woman in those days, was a curiosity with bucks here among the hills, and there were men in our camp who hadn't set their eyes on one for two years. She stood still, just looking at us. I don't know what the rest thought, but 'Aunt Betty' said afterwards 'that it seemed like a warnin' to some of us,' and he was wondering whose time had come. The 'Judge' sat on the end of the bench, and he arose and took off his hat. One after another followed his axample slowly, each one getting up in turn and taking off his hat.

"We must have looked comical, for we all had on woolen shirts, with the sleeves rolled up and the collars turned back.—Our pants were tied about our waists, and tucked in no very careful manner in our rubber boot-legs. Add to our rough costumes eight faces unshaven and unshorn for weeks, and you may catch some idea of our general appearance.

"The pale light of our sputtering candle added to the weirdness of the scene, and when 'Jack the Wicked' murmured: 'To your knees, boys, all at once,' I guess we were all more than half inclined to obey. The 'Judge' recovered himself the quickest, and advanced toward the door.

"I wish to see my brother, Will Browning; I heard that he was here,' said the most musical voice I ever heard.

"He was here a few months ago," replied the 'Judge,' "but I do not know where he is now. How did you come, and where are your friends?"

"I came through the valley and shadow of death, I should think, for I am nearly dead with hunger, and as to friends, I have the gloomiest old teamster you ever saw, though I thought it rare good luck when I found him, and he engaged to bring me up here to Will. I paid him every cent of money I had, and I haven't had a mouthful for days, but bad bacon. Is there any hotel within a short distance? If not, perhaps there is some good women who would let me stay with her until I can get some word from Will."

"I guess every man hugged to himself the thought that she would have to stay with us, even for a short time, and the 'Judge' didn't look very sorry, though he professed to feel dreadfully for her dilemma.

"He said, and I am sure his full, rich voice must have seemed a tower of strength to her, "Will is a dear friend of ours, and if you will kindly allow us the honor of protecting his sister, until he can be commnnicated with, we shall be under obligations to you. We must look odd to you; but we claim to be gentlemen, and I assure we can and will make you comfortable."

"She had a perplexed look on her face when the 'Judge' told her that there was no woman living near; but she was mistress of the situation in a moment, and said very demurely, though with a rather sly sparkle, 'Oh, I shall be quite comfortable, but I'm afraid I shall trouble you terribly.'

"Every one spoke at once. "No trouble in the least!" And then Dandy said: "Judge, if you were to introduce us to the lady, she would feel more at home with us."

"The 'Judge' must have been awfully smitten at first sight, or he never would have been guilty of introducing us by our camp titles. As it was, he said: "Miss Browning, let me introduce you to Will's friends, Mr. South Carolina." He advanced as he was called, and in the most chivalric manner he bowed over the lady's extended hand. "This is Mr.

"He bowed stiffly, and every where but at her. "Aunt Betty, did you know Will? I believe you didn't; but he will be a friend to you, all the same, Miss Browning."

"You can bet your life on that, every time," said Aunt Betty, and we were all ready to split by this time, the 'Judge' looked so dignified, doing the honors of the occasion in such a fine manner as he no doubt thought.

"He continued: "This is Mr. Dandy;" You should have seen the killing bows. By that time she had taken in the drollery of the thing, and when Dandy bowed so profoundly, swept him a courtesy that liked to have finished him on the spot.

"Senor and Will were sworn allies. We used to call them David and Jonathan."

"She smiled and asked, "Which are you?" And for the first and only time in my life I didn't know what to say, but I stammered out, "Either, ma'am."—There was something like a snicker from the company, but the 'Judge' had no ears nor eyes for any one but her; so he kept on, and with a wave of his hand presented 'Our Baby.' The great six-footer looked for all the world as though he would put up his lip and cry, until Miss Browning said: "How do you do, dear; can he talk?" And then he blurted out; "My name is Otis Allen."

"Jack got the start of them, and stepping in front of them, said in a tragic manner: "Jack Wicked—known all over the Pacific coast for my diabolical acts—and let me assist my friend—this is the 'Judge' a terror to all evil doers, and the protector of distressed innocence, whenever it may have the good fortune to fall into his hands."

"Yes," said the 'Judge,' with the most imperturbable gravity, "and now you know us all, and must consider us your most obedient servants.

"She laughed a low, rippling laugh and said: "Yes, I am sure I know all now, and should like to shake hands all round; it would give me a sort of a home feeling, and you would feel better acquainted too, with me."

"She began with the 'Judge,' and he looked, while he held her hand, as though he had been translated."

"She's got an awful lot of magnetism about her, I tell you; my arm and hand thrill now, when I think of that first hand-clasp. We hadn't a chair in the cabin, but we gave her our best three-legged stool. She took off her jaunty hat and sack, and each one sprang to take them. She didn't seem to notice us, but left them lying in her chair. She told us she had left some baggage a little way from our house. She had left it there, she said, so as to walk in upon her dear old Will unannounced, and instead of finding him, she had stumbled on such a lot of friends.

"Can you give me something good to eat?" and she glanced at the table with its scanty remains of supper.

"The table was cleared off in a hurry, a plate washed, and a can of chicken opened. 'Aunt Betty' made a cup of tea and stirred up some flapjacks, and one of us thought to scour a knife and fork by running them in the ground several times. Oh, they were lively times, I tell you. Only the 'Judge'—he never moved, but looked at her. She did not seem to notice him, but watched our operations with great interest.

"While she ate—and the quaintness of the surroundings did not seem to effect her appetite—we all stood around and waited upon her. I guess there never was a day while she lived with us but that she laughed at that first meal she took with us."

"We partitioned her off a bed-room in one corner with some blankets, and all but the Judge and Aunt Betty went into the same house to sleep.

"You'd think when we got there we'd be likely to talk over the wonderful event, but we didn't; not a word was spoken concerning it. But there was considerable thinking done that night.

"By light we were all up and pacing before the cabin. The teamster had given care of the charge he left to us, and all the other boys were over to see how things were. There wasn't a stroke of work done in the camp that day, and not much for a week.

"Then the Judge called us together and told us it wouldn't do; we were getting demoralized; that Miss Browning was unhappy because she had interrupted our arrangements, and that we must come right down to steady day's work after that. We tried to, but we never could get back to old times. There was a good deal of rivalry among us, and we said cutting things sometimes. Judge sent letters in all directions to Will, but three weeks passed without a word in reply. We had all in turn offered to accompany Miss Browning to San Francisco, but she said she knew no one at that place; Will would come before long, and he would be disappointed if she should leave; besides, hadn't she eight of the very best brothers in the world? She would stay a while longer, and she could help cook, and mend for us, so as not to be too much of a burden to us. She had a few books she had brought for Will, and she would read to us evenings. We came up an hour earlier than usual, and our table was all ready for us, and it had many an extra touch that none but a woman would think of. We were a silent set of men during the day, but each did his best when he got home. Stories were told, songs were sung, and her readiness entranced us all. She always called us by the names that were first given her, and ever so many times she went through the introduction, acting out all of the parts. It seemed funnier to her than it did to us. She talked to South Carolina about the beauties of the Southern sky, and of the flowers and trees, which eclipsed anything at the North. To Nutmeg she praised New England, and she had some favorite topic to discuss with us.

"Of course we were all in love with her, but none dared to boast that he had received any sign of preference from the lady. We had all proposed to her once, and some of us a half a dozen times. She just made light of it; said we were crazy, and didn't know what we were about; but she came to know after a while that we did.

"There was open war among us. We all acted like madmen except the Judge; he would not answer any of their taunts, but was most pleasant to all; yet he began to look real careworn, and every time he met any of us alone he would say that he wished Will would come soon. He talked to us about keeping the peace, and appealed to our honor as men and love for our old comrade. Kate, herself, had quite a little talk with each one. I don't know how she managed it, but she left the impression upon us all that we were most likely to be accepted if we behaved ourselves and kept quiet. But it was no go; we could not.

"One evening she refused to sit down with us at the table; little was eaten at that meal. She walked up and down the room, and said emphatically. "I am going off—I don't know where; but I must go away; this is getting unbearable. I cannot meet one of you but what I am importuned to marry you; don't you see, gentlemen, that I cannot marry any one of you, the rest are all angry. Now I ask what shall I do? Will doesn't come, and here I am, alone. I wish you would drop this nonsense and behave yourselves. Won't you?"

"She looked from one to another, and finally asked Jack—"Come, you own to being wicked, and have been an awful tease; wont you reform, and then all the rest will?"

"Aunt Betty said:—"If you care for any of us make it know, and then the rest shall behave or—there will be a general row."

"That's just it; you will fight any way, you are getting to be so savage. In being lovers, I am afraid that you have forgotten to be gentlemen."

"Wasn't that a stinger for us? But we didn't feel it then as we have since. We all promised not to say a word after her decision was made known to us. Each one may have been elated, thinking he was likely to be chosen.

"She sat down and put her face on her arm, but it was only for a moment.—Then she said—"I shall ask for two days to think of it. Next Sunday there will be a wedding here and a supper afterwards, which we will help to prepare. If any one speaks to me on the subject between this time and that, his doom is sealed."

"There was an oldish man over to the other cabin, who seemed to have a fatherly care for Kate. And I might as well say here, that all of us who were unmarried had offered ourselves to her and had been refused.

"Well, Kate and the old man Howe had a long talk together, and then he went off and did not get back until Sunday, when he brought a minister with him.—There was some kind of service in the afternoon, out under the trees, but none of us paid much attention. Our eyes were all for Kate, and she was crying softly all the time. When it was over she took the preacher's arm, and walked with him some time. Then she went into our cabin, and we all followed. Mean, wasn't it? But we did not see it in that light, then.

The man took the Bible from his pocket and said:

"This lady tells me that you have given her your promise to abide quietly by her decision, and to dwell in peace and harmony together. For her sake you can not object to come here, one by one, and take an oath that I shall dictate. It is that you reiterate the promise with a hand on this sacred book."

"We advanced and received it as solemnly as though it were to be the last of our lives. He told us that Miss Browning was very much attached to us but of course could marry but one, and that we must bear our disappointment as became men.

"She went and stood beside him. I thought she would faint, but she did not. We all rose when the minister said, 'Let us pray.' When he was half through, the Judge sat down, completely overcome by his feelings. I am free to say this was the longest prayer I ever heard. If the minister had been suspended between heaven and the other place as we were, I am sure he would have made fewer words of it.

"When it was over he said:—I am here to solemnize a marriage between Catharine F. Browning (he must have felt an inward chuckle over the torture he was inflicting, for he paused, well, it may be only for a minute, but to us it seemed an hour), and James A. Woodruff. If any of you know cause or just impediment why these two persons should not be joined in holy matrimony you are to declare it now, or else forever hold your peace."

"Jim had not stirred a step. The minister took his hand and placed him beside his bride. He walked up then. I guess the look he gave her satisfied her, for her face cleared up like a summer sky after a rain.

"The brief service was soon over that made the Judge a happy benediet, and, us, perhaps, bachelors for life.

"Jim looked up so earnest at us:—Boys, I do not deserve this happiness as much as either of you; but it has fallen to my lot, and I will try to make her happy. Will you not wish us God speed?—and he held out his hand. Each of us was man enough to walk up and take it, and the little brown hand that had been given to Jim.

"Then we had supper. There wasn't much eaten, but we all lived through it; but none of us have felt much hankering after weddings, since, I reckon.

THE OLD CUSTOM OF BUNDLING.

The old custom called Bundling has been recently made the subject of a careful examination by Dr. Henry Reed Stiles, who publishes the results of his investigations in a little volume entitled Bundling, its Origin, Progress, and Decline in America (Knickerbocker Publishing Company). The practice originated, as Dr. Stiles pretty clearly proves, in the want of ample sleeping accommodations in a primitive state of civilization, and difficulty of keeping warm during a long winter's evening while sitting by the fireside alone. To this day it prevails in Scotland, Wales, and England, among the poorer classes; and something similar to it has been observed in Holland, where it is called questing, and in Switzerland. Among savage nations it is not uncommon for young women to receive and converse with their suitors at night in their sleeping apartments. That it was common in New England during the last century, Dr. Stiles demonstrates beyond question, though he concedes that it never had the sanction of the more refined class of people, and long ago died out. He cites instances, however, of its being practised within a comparatively recent period in New Jersey and Pennsylvania among the Dutch and their descendants, and it may perhaps exist to this day in the more retired districts of those States.

Among other authorities, Dr. Stiles refers to a letter written by Lieut. Aubury, a British officer who served in this country during the Revolutionary War. The letter is dated at Cambridge, Nov. 20, 1777, and the writer says:

"The night before we came to this town (Williamstown, Mass.,) being quartered at a small log hut, I was convinced in how innocent a view the Americans look upon that indelicate custom they call bundling. Though they have remarkable good feather beds, and are extremely neat and clean, still I preferred my hard mattress, as being accustomed to it; this evening, however, owing to the badness of the roads and the weakness of my mare, my servant had not arrived with my baggage at the time for retiring to rest. There being only two beds in the house, I inquired which I was to sleep in, when the old woman replied, 'Mr. Ensign,' here I should observe to you that the New England people are very inquisitive as to the rank you have in the army; 'Mr. Ensign,' says she, 'our Jonathan and I will sleep in this, and our Jemima and you shall sleep in that.' I was much astonished at such a proposal, and offered to sit up all night, when Jonathan immediately replied, 'Oh, la! Mr. Ensign, you won't be the first man our Jemima has bundled with, will it, Jemima?' when little Jemima, who, by the by, was a very pretty, black-eyed girl, of about sixteen or seventeen, archly replied, 'No, father, not by many, but it will be with the first Britainer' (the name they give the Englishmen)."

The Rev. Samuel Peters is also quoted as saying of the women of Connecticut that 'they are strictly ... lite lady," and as speaking of bundling as follows:

"Notwithstanding the modesty of the females is such that it would be accounted the greatest rudeness for a gentleman to speak before a lady of a garter, knee, or leg, yet it is thought but a piece of civility to ask her to bundle, a custom as old as the first settlement in 1634. It is certainly innocent, virtuous, and prudent, or the Puritans would not have permitted it to prevail among their offspring, for whom in general they would suffer crucifixion.

* * * * * * *

"I should not have said so much about bundling, had not a learned divine of the English church published his travels through some parts of America, wherein this remarkable custom is represented in an unfavorable light, and as prevailing among the lower class of people. The truth is, the custom prevails among all classes, to the great honor of the country, its religion, and ladies. The virtuous may be tempted; but the tempter is despised. Why it should be thought incredible for a young man and young woman innocently and virtuously to lie down together in a bed with a great part of their clothes on, I cannot conceive. Human passions may be alike in every region; but religion, diversified as it is, opperates differently in different countries. Upon the whole, had I daughters now, I would venture to let them bundle on the bed, or even on the sofa, after a proper education, sooner than adopt the Spanish mode of forcing young people to prattle only before the lady's mother the chitchat of artless lovers."

A lady, writing to John Neal when he was editing the Yankee at Portland, Me., in 1828, sent him some extracts from a letter received by her about three years before from another lady, who had gone to visit a relative in Franklin county, Me. These extracts speak of bundling as still being in fashion among the people of Franklin county, and of its being actually proposed to the writer by an admirer of hers. Her refusal was received with great offence by the young man, who attributed it entirely to pride. She then adds:

"I have since made inquiries about bundling, and find it is really the custom here, and that they think no more harm of it than we do our way of a young couple setting up together. I have known an instance, since I have been here, of a girl's taking her sweetheart to a neighbor's house and asking for a bed for two to lodge in, or rather to bundle in. They had company at her father's, so that their beds were occupied; she thought no harm of it. She and her family are respectable.

"Grandmother says bundling was a very common thing in our part of the country in old times; that most of the first settlers lived in log houses, which seldom had more than one room with a fireplace; in this room the old people slept, so if one of their girls had a sweetheart in the winter she must either sit with him in the room where her father and mother slept, or take him into her sleeping room. She would choose the latter for the sake of being alone with him; but sometimes when the cold was very severe, rather than freeze to death, they would crawl under the bedclothes; and thus, after a while, became a habit, a custom, or a fashion."

Of course the practice was exceedingly liable to abuse, and the clergy exerted themselves strenuously to destroy it. They struggled in vain, however, till the rhymesters of the day took their side, and began writing satirical ballads and epigrams against it, a number of which Dr. Stiles produces. One of these ballads published in 1785, was peculiarly efficient in this way, and from its appearance may be dated the downfall of bundling. Dr. Stiles sums up his view of the matter thus:

I. That the custom, so far as it pertained to the American States, had its origin as a matter of convenience and necessity.

II. That in all stages of its history it was chiefly confined to the humbler classes of society.

III. That its prevalence may be said to have closed with the eighteenth century.

It is his opinion that it came nearest to being a universal custom from 1750 to 1780, and that it was at all times regarded by the better classes as a serious evil, and was no more countenanced by them than the frequenting of grog shops is at the present day. This opinion is corroborated by the remarks of several old persons whom he has consulted as to their recollections of the custom. Among these, a citizen of East Haddam, Conn., now in his 95th year, says that he well remembers it; that it could not be called general, though frequent. It was not practised among the more intelligent, educated classes, nor among those who lived in large, well-warmed houses. He says it was not the fashion to bundle with any chap who might call on a girl, but that it was a special favor, granted only to a favorite lover, who might consider it a proof of the high regard which the damsel had for him. He thinks the fashion ceased about 1790 to 1800, and in consequence of education and refinement; and that no more mischief was done then than there is nowadays.

Battle with the Coreans.

In the second battle of the American squadron with the Coreans the later had six thousand men miserably armed with jingalls. Their bullets all fell short, while the deadly rifles told fearfully on the enemy. In the evening, under cover of rank vegetation and the shoulder of a hill, the Americans advanced within one hundred and twenty yards of the forts before they came in range of the Corean musketry. The Coreans resisted desperately to the last, and Lieutenant McKee was killed as he entered the entrenchments. When the Americans were in the entrenchments the Coreans succumbed; and a number of prisoners were taken, including the officer second in command, who was badly wounded, the Commander-in-Chief having been killed June 10th. The American force bivouacked in the forts the next day, demolished the citadel, spiked all the guns and then the fleet returned to the Boise anchorage. Two days later the Coreans sent on board a letter filled with most insulting and abusive language, to which no reply was sent. Admiral Rogers, however, sent to know what he should do with the prisoners. The Coreans answered that he could do what he liked. Two days later he set them at liberty. He sent two messages ashore, but the local authorities refused them, saying it was as much as his head was worth to send them and no use to attempt to communicate further with the Court. Mr. Low, American Minister, then sent a formal protest that his mission was a peaceful one, and that the attack on the forts was not for the refusal to negotiate, but because the Coreans, too, treacherously fired on the boats. The steamer Millet then dispatched the Shanghai dispatches. The Washington, Monacacy and Pelos will return to Shanghai. He docked the rest of the squadron and returned to Jeddo to await instructions. One hundred thousand rations were issued at Cheefo to the Coreans, who fought like men. The weapons were wretched old fire locks, and cutlasses made of soft iron, which bent like old iron. They were dressed in armor of nine thicknesses of cotton, padded so that only rifle balls could penetrate it, the swords producing no effect. The documents captured showed that the Corean Government had planned the surprise of the American fleet, and that they were astonished at the failure of the forts to annihilate the foreign vessels at the first fire. The expedition has not accomplished any change in the relations of the two countries, and Minister Low and Admiral Rogers ... await instructions from Christiansen, before proceeding further. Admiral's flagship in a junk, begged to be taken to Shanghai, and also that their junk be burned to prevent its falling into the hands of the native authorities, who would thereby discover from what village they came and punish their relatives. The request was granted.

The English colonial press denounce the return of the American fleet to Cheefo as having no moral effect in the defeat.

Two Englishmen and one German, engaged in saving material of the wrecked German schooner Chusan, on Sir James Hall Island, were captured by the Coreans, bound hand and foot, slung on bamboos, and packed off into the interior. The British fleet has gone from Japan to inquire into the matter.

The Mahameden insurrection, north of China, is still formidable.

The New Zealand citizens are determined to form a joint stock whaling company to compete with the American whalers in those waters.

All is quiet. The Fiji new government is working satisfactorily.

Animalculæ a Cause of Cholera.

The grave apprehensions regarding the westward advance of the cholera will receive a new incitement in the announcement that the disease has made its appearance at Konigsberg, one of the most important Prussian ports on the Baltic. A curious theory in regard to the cause of the malady is just now receiving much attention. It is that of Raspail, who holds that animalculæ are its primary origin. It is an old theory, it is true, but none the worse for that; and what gives it importance just now is the fact that there is a remedy for it. In 1849 and '50, during the ravages of the cholera in the West Indies, it was found, on examining microscopically the water of the localities where the disease existed, that it was impregnated with animalculæ foreign to the place, which disappeared simultaneously with the disease. These animalculæ would die when placed in contact with vinegar, which seemed to be to them a deadly poison. This is the evidence in support of Raspail, and a thorough microscopical investigation of the water in localities affected, and of the evacuations of a sufferer from this pestilence of the Ganges, it is evident will establish the fact that the disease is propagated by animalculæ. In view of this, a correspondent of the Herald suggests, and in good time, that—

"All water for drinking purposes should be boiled and kept tightly covered, for it is in the water where the greater number of animalculæ, are found. We should also carefully abstain from all liquids which have not been thoroughly purified by fire. A judicious use, internally, of a few drops of camphor daily, destroys the animalculæ as fast as they enter the system, thereby arresting the disease."

Camphor is one of the remedies for cholera, as well for a preventive as for a mitigation or cure of the disease.

—A learned counsellor, in the middle of an affecting appeal in court on a slander suit, let fly the following flight of genius: "Slander, gentlemen, like a boa constrictor of gigantic size and immeasurable proportions, wraps the coil of its unwieldy body about its unfortunate victim, and, heedless of the shrieks of agony that come from the inmost depths of his victim's soul, loud and reverberating as the mighty thunder that rolls in the heavens, it finally breaks its unlucky neck upon the iron wheel of public opinion, forcing him to desperation, then to madness, and finally crushing him in the hideous jaws of moral death! Judge, give us a chaw of tobacco!"

—A doctor's motto is supposed to be "patients and long suffering."

REPUBLICAN RALLY!

Hon. H. BUCHER SWOPE

Will address a Republican Meeting to be held in the Court House in Beaver, on TUESDAY EVENING, SEP. 5th.

Let there be a grand turn-out to hear one of the greatest orators of the day. S. J. CROSS, Ch'n. Co. Com.

THE Buffenberger case occupied the attention of the court during the entire day, at Columbus, Ohio, on Friday last, after which the defendant was honorably discharged from the charge of having murdered Mr. Buffenberger, her former husband.

THE receipts of fractional currency for the week ending Saturday last, amount to $492,000. Shipments of notes $1,146,000, fractional currency $548,000. The Treasurer holds as security for the National Bank circulation $363,490,600, and for public deposits $15,691,500. The internal revenue receipts on Saturday, were $335,000; total for the fiscal year to date $23,960,343; National Bank notes in circulation at that date $321,373,880.

RAILROAD accidents, for various causes, have become alarmingly frequent of late, calling for critical and severe investigation. A frightful accident occurred on Saturday night last on the Eastern Railroad, seven miles from Boston, by which twenty-one passengers were killed outright and some forty or fifty more wounded. A collision occurred on Saturday morning, on the middle division of the Philadelphia and Erie Railroad, near West Port Station, by which four persons were killed and fourteen persons dangerously wounded.

CONGRESS having appropriated $1,000,000 at the last session for the construction of a floating iron dock for the repair of vessels on their stations, the Secretary of the Navy has received plans from eminent naval architects of the country, besides those of leading naval constructors, all of which will be submitted to a board which will meet at the Navy Department in a few days for the purpose of determining upon the most suitable plan for the dock, which will be made public on September 5, and bids for its construction will be received for three months thereafter. The dock must be constructed at some private establishment.

[illegible] sheep, more fatal even than the murderous dogs, has made its appearance and dreadfully ravaged the flocks of Manitowoc, in Wisconsin. The animal being found dead, no marks of violence are to be observed, save a small hole behind the ear, from which the blood has been sucked. This has led to the conclusion that the destroyer is a kind of bat, or, more properly speaking, vampire—a creature which even men may fear, since it may not have an exclusive taste for the vital fluid of the muttons. This, with the curculio and potato bug, renders our present assortment of noxious vermin very complete.

YELLOW fever has made its appearance in Charleston, S. C., it is feared in an epidemic form. A letter received by a gentleman in New York, on Friday morning last, says that the "yellow fever of a malignant type has broken out, and that he has seen four cases himself." Information from other sources, state that the disease is there and spreading.

What with the small pox, and a prospect of cholera, we have ample monitions to attend at once to the sanitary condition of our borough and surroundings.

AT THE Spiritual camp-meeting in Walden, Mass., last week, Mr. J. L. Hatch made a speech in which he said that he hoped that the Spiritual doctrine was true; but he was one of those unfortunate men who had never succeeded in obtaining any testimony from the spirit world. Perhaps it was his own fault, but he prayed to be luckier in future. This speaker, it seems, hits the nail on the head with refreshing squareness. No person has a right to believe in the truth of these "spiritual manifestations" except upon the evidence of his own senses; and since these may often deceive us, even their authority is not the best possible.

THE Sunbury American thinks the political canvass so far this year has been very satisfactory to the Republicans. Commencing with the victory in Connecticut, the defeat of the rebels and Ku-klux in their efforts to annul the reconstruction constitution of North Carolina followed. The victory, for such we are enabled to call it in Kentucky the other day, whereby the old Democratic majority of 70,000 was reduced to barely 20,000, has given fresh vigor to the spirits of the party, which augurs well for success for the coming elections in Ohio, Indiana, and Pennsylvania. Keep the ball rolling.

By a recent act of the New Hampshire Legislature, a system is provided "to compel children to attend school." Every parent or guardian of a child between eight and fourteen years of age, must send him to some public school within two miles of his residence for twelve weeks in each year. Six weeks of such schooling must be consecutive. The parent is relieved from sending such child to public school in case he is instructed for the time mentioned at home or in some private school in the branches taught in the public schools or in more advanced studies. The penalty for violation of this law is ten dollars for the first offence and twenty dollars for the second and every subsequent offence. The local school board, on notice from any tax payer of any violation of the law, must institute suit under penalty of twenty dollars for each neglect to enforce the law.

THE vast aggregate of the liquor trade of the United States, is beyond the comprehension of the public, unassisted by statistics from Washington. Edward Young, Chief of the Bureau of statistics gives a statement of the trade during the past fiscal year, from which it appears that spirituous liquors to the value of six hundred millions of dollars, and lager beer, ale and porter to the value of one hundred and thirty millions of dollars, were sold by retail in this country. This is a fact appalling to some minds, and astounding to all who reflect. The consumption is equal to an outlay of fifteen dollars per annum for intoxicating drinks by every inhabitant of the land! These facts without any exaggeration, should be sufficient, in the hands of temperance lecturers, to convince the public of a necessity for reformation. To exaggerate would be to lessen their effect.

THE fact should not be overlooked by the people of our county, that they will be required on the second Tuesday of October next, to vote upon the question whether there shall or shall not be a call for a Convention to amend our State Constitution. The authorized advertisement of such a vote being demanded of those who are entitled to the ballot, at that time, will be found in the columns of the ARGUS. That a Convention is needed for amending our State Constitution will be obvious to every one who desires that instrument to conform to the United States Constitution, which guarantees equal rights to all men—suffrage and eligibility to office included. Our present State Constitution confines the elective franchise to "free white male citizens"—excluding the colored man. Now, although it is the law that where the Constitutions of a State and that of the United States conflict, the former must give way to the latter yet it is very desirable that this cause of conflict should be removed; because in many election districts where not overly enlightened election officers control the board, who have been sworn to "conduct the election according to the constitution and laws of the State," colored men are apt to be ruled out of their votes, and litigation and disorder are the results.

The subject of placing special legislation under Constitutional restriction, is one which loudly calls for an amendment. Surely, when it is so frequently charged that moneyed corporations can control our State Legislation, it is time the people should prescribe in their fundamental law, meets and bounds beyond which that body may not pass. The mode of choosing our State Treasurer also demands the revision of the Constitution, making that office elective by the people.

ON the subject of political amnesty we admire the views expressed by Ex-Governor of Ohio, in a speech at [illegible]. He said, in substance, that six long years had passed since the close of the Rebellion. All the States have assumed their old relations to the General Government, and are fully represented in the Congress of the Nation. We want the hatreds and animosities engendered by the war to die away, and the South once more to start on its career of prosperity and happiness. To this end we are inclined to think that the true policy of the Administration and, of Congress would be the grant of general amnesty to all the excepted classes, for the reason that many of those now under disabilities are as loyal as those who have all their civil rights without restriction, while some of the latter class are notoriously disloyal.

Few people know how many or what persons are now excepted from the privileges which amnesty confers, and we lose the benefit of what might otherwise prove exemplary punishment. It would be better to exclude from the provisions of general amnesty such persons, by name, as have persistently refused to accept the situation, and who decline to adapt themselves to the changed condition of affairs—such men as Davis, Toombs and Stephens, prominent persons who still declare that nothing has been settled by the war; who openly threaten to renew the attempt at secession whenever opportunity presents itself, and who refuse to wash from their hands the blood of their old treason. This would be a significant warning to evil-doers, as well as a recognition and encouragement of those who are well disposed.

BY authority of a recent act of Congress a class of cadet engineers will be formed in September, composed of fifty members. Any one sufficiently proficient, between the ages of 18 and 22, may apply to the Secretary of the Navy for leave to appear before the board of examination, which will convene on the 15th of September and remain in session until the 25th. During the course of probation of the cadets at the Academy, which will be two years, they will receive the same pay and enjoy the same rank and privileges, and be under the same restrictions, as the cadet midshipmen, and pursue the same studies, except the branch of seamanship. Owing to the large number of candidates who have already applied, and the fact that but fifty can be selected, the examination both as to mental and physical qualifications will be very rigid and concise.

AMONG the marine disasters which occurred on Sunday last on the coast of Florida were: The brig Pomena, of Richmond, Maine, went ashore twenty-five miles south of Cape Canaveret, on August 27. Her cargo can be saved. The steamship Lodona stranded six miles north of Canaveret. The beach for thirty miles is strewn with her cargo. The Captain and twenty men were lost. The first officer, second officer, chief engineer, first assistant engineer, the cook, one fireman, Captain Harvey's mess boy and five seamen were saved. The brig S. and W. Welsh, of Philadelphia, went ashore fiften miles south of Cape Canavaret. Her cargo of sugar, was washed ashore. The Captain was drowned. The brig H. G. Berry, of Baltimore, went ashore fifty yards from the wreck of the S. and W. Welsh. She is a total wreck. She had a cargo of sugar and molasses. The barque Hilda, from New Orleans, went ashore six miles south of St. Augustine, with a cargo of tobacco and stores, and is a total loss. One man was drowned.

THE Democracy of Washington county, at their county convention, held a couple of months ago, declined to nominate their candidates for the Legislature at that time. They however, selected three conferees, and gave them instructions to meet at some future time and select such candidates for Assembly, as in their judgement would be suitable for the positions. Last week these conferees held a conference at Cannonsburgh and nominated Dr. E. T. Cooper of Monongahela City and Hugh Keys (late Sheriff of Washington county) as the Democratic candidates for the Legislature.

HERE AND THERE.

—A western paper wishes to see Red Cloud in the Indian Bureau. It would have that gentle savage "take off his leggings, throw away his blanket, break his tomahawk, wash off his paint, put on a swallow-tailed coat, a stove-pipe hat, a pair of pants and a pair of boots, and apply for the place he is so well qualified to fill."

—At the Miles Standish celebration, Dr. Loring let out an interesting reminiscence of the Puritan's courtship not related by Longfellow. "I claim lineal descent from Miles Standish," said the Doctor; "my grandmother's name was Alathea Alden, whose husband, John Alden, was sent by Standish to court her by proxy, but who accepted a modest hint from the maid, and won her for himself instead of his leader."

—The great boat race for the championship off the world came off at St. John, New Brunswick, August 28. The boats started at 7:25, and led alternately for five minutes. At 7:33 the St. John was ahead, and at 7:40 the St. John was the only crew rowing, the Tyne crew having gone to the shore in consequence of Renforth being taken with a fit. The St. John crew rowed over the course, winners of the race in forty minutes and eleven seconds. Renforth died in an hour after the race.

—Brick Pomeroy, who is making a western tour collecting materials for a public lecture and writing to his paper, in his sixth letter describes a visit to the jail in Nevada, Story county, Iowa. He found there a murderer under the sentence of death, and a horse thief. They were the only prisoners. In conversation with them, the fact was disclosed that they both were formerly subscribers to his celebrated La Crosse Democrat. Brick tries to point a moral and adorn the tale, but he does not succeed.

—The ship Euterpe, from New York, foundered at sea, Captain J. W. Leach, Master, says that on June 15th, in latitude 50° 30′ south, longitude 47° west, his ship was reported leaking, and in thirty minutes afterwards she went down. The officers, [illegible] and sixteen men in the larger and seven men in the smaller boat. After weathering two heavy gales, the large boat made Rio Grande de Sud, June 14, having been for two days and nights without food or water. The smaller boat had not been heard from, but it is supposed she has been picked up by a passing vessel.

—The stage coach between Chambersburg and McConnellsburg was run away with by its horses last Thursday evening, on the top of Cove Mountain where the road runs between a cliff and a precipice along a narrow ledge. There were three persons in the vehicle, which finally overturned. The driver, John Teeter, was killed, Mr. A. S. Barber, editor of the Woodburg, N. J., Constitution, was severely though not dangerously wounded, and Miss Jennie Brosius of McConnellsburg was a good deal bruised. Considering the place where the runaway took place, it is certainly marvellous that all were not killed.

—The propritor of the grounds on which a circus and menagerie were exhibited in Cincinnati last week, chartered the menagerie for one day, and gave an exhibition on Sunday. The Commercial tells the result: "He was ordered by the police to stop the exhibition, but positively refused to do so. He was then arrested and taken to the Oliver street station house, on a charge of giving a public show on Sunday. He gave bail and was released, but continuing the show was arrested and re-arrested several times. He was always prepared to give bail, however, and at 8 o'clock was still enjoying his freedom and rejoicing in the computation that he had made nearly a thousand dollars clear by the enterprise.

—A fish mystery is troubling Council Bluffs. Spoon Lake, a placid sheet of water near that city, has never been know to contain fish "to any extent" until recently, when its waters not only swarmed with myriads of finny monsters, but the surrounding shores are alive with fish. They have come in such enormous numbers that the waves wash them high and dry on the shore where they lie knee-deep, dead and putrefying. The fish trade in Omaha and Council Bluffs has become prodigious. The fish seem to be greatly astonished at their new surroundings, and stick their heads from the water and open their mouths as if they wanted air. A little boy takes a flat board and wades into the water and in ten minutes throws out as many fish as a wagon can carry, varying in weight from two to five pounds. People who have lived in the neighborhood for years declare the phenomenon unprecedented, and various wild theories are put forth in explanation. The prevalent belief is that the swarm came into the lake by a subterranean passage, during a late storm, while a few venerable observers contend that the Missouri overflowed its banks and flooded the lake with catfish and perch.

—The Cumberland News of Tuesday contains the following item: "It appears that some dissatisfaction existing for some time past among the men employed on the line of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad, in the vicinity of Bridgeport, about twelve miles from this city, culminated in an attack on the paycar while at that point yesterday. At about 12:30 p. m. the paymaster, within his car, accompanied by several hands, stopped at Bridgeport to pay off the hands in that division. The men were paid for the month of June, and insisted on being paid for July also. This, we believe, the paymaster was not prepared to do, and the dissatisfaction of the men incensed them to make and attack upon the pay-car by hurling stones at it, smashing in windows and otherwise damaging the car. The paymaster and his assistants drew their revolvers and threatened death to the rioters. Amidst the excitement the engineer put on steam and moved the train on up the road, out of reach of the attacking party. A short distance above the bridge the train stopped and the paymaster proceeded to pay off some more hands, and then left before the party of men who seemed bent on following the car, could come up with it. No person was injured, although at one time their seemed to be much reason to fear a serious riot."

The Democratic Party as a Retrenchment Party.

The Republican Legislature of 1868 passed an act, still on the statute books, fixing the number and compensation of the officers of each branch of the Legislature.

The number of officers of the Senate was fixed at 1 chief clerk, 2 assistants, 4 transcribing clerks, 1 librarian, 1 sergeant-at-arms and 2 assistants, 1 messenger and two assistants; 1 superintendent of the folding room and 6 pasters and folders, 1 doorkeeper of the rotunda, 1 postmaster, 1 fireman and five pages—32 in all.

The Republican Senate of 1869 was organized in strict compliance with this law, the Republican members presenting a resolution for the election of candidates for the places above named, no more and no less. But, before their election took place, the Democratic members, to show their conviction that this was providing more offices than the Senate really needed, put forward Mr. Burnett and Mr. M'Candless to offer an amendment to the resolution, for the election of a smaller number of officers, to wit: by leaving out one of the assistant messenger, the postmaster, and all the pasters and folders. For this amendment all the Democratic Senators voted, the vote standing 15 to 18.

The Democratic Senators, when in the minority, thus placed themselves on the record as believing that this was all the Senate needed, in the way of officers—that the act of 1868 was, in fact, too liberal.

In 1871 the Democrats, had, accidentally, a majority in the Senate. Did they carry out, then, their programme of 1869? Let us see.

They put themselves on record, then, as thinking that the Senate had no pasters and folders, and that body could get along with less officers than the law allowed. But the moment they came into power, they proceeded to elect not only all the officers authorized by the law of 1868, but more than the legal number, although that act positively prohibits the election of any greater number of officers by either branch. As for instance:

The law of 1868 allows two assistant clerks; the Democratic Senate had three; the law allows only four transcribing clerks; they had five; the law authorizes two; assistant doorkeepers; they had three; the law provides for six pasters and folders; they had eight; they had also three fireman, where the law allows but [illegible] librarian, for none of which was there any provision of law, to say nothing of nine pages, where they could legally employ but five.

We thus find 15 Democratic Senators voting in 1869 that the Senate needed no pasters and folders, and 17 Democratic Senators in 1871 voting to employ and pay nine (including the superintendent) of these useless officers. The same 15 Senators declared in 1869 that the law of 1868 was too liberal, and allowed more officers than the Senate needed; whilst the 17 Senators voted the number altogether too small, and proceed to multiply new officers without stint. The difference is, the 15 were in the minority; the 17 were in the majority. It is a very retrenching and economical party when it is out of power, but a very expensive one when it gets in.

The law of 1868 authorizes the Senate to elect or employ 32 officers, including every subordinate; the Democratic Senate of 1871 elected or employed 49 officers—17 more than the law allowed, and 26 more than the Senate really needed, themselves being judges, as is evidenced by their vote for Burnett's resolution in 1869.

But this is not all. The act of 1868 fixed the compensation of all these officers, and enacted that under no circumstances should they be permitted to draw more pay or receive any extra allowance. This wholesome provision of law was totally disregarded by these Democratic retrenchers. The pay of nearly all the officers is fixed by that law at $600 each; but the 49 officers employed by the Democratic Senate have already been paid $47,904.50—or an average of nearly a thousand dollars each.

Look, people of Pennsylvania, at these figures. The pay of the officers of the Republican Senate of 1870 was $26,466.65, and the total cost of the session was $92,260.35. The pay of the officers of the Democratic Senate of 1871 was $47,904.50, nearly double that of the previous session, and the total expenses of the session, thus far paid are $140,757.68. As there are probably over $10,000 of claims under this head yet unpaid, it is perfectly safe to put down the total cost of the late Democratic Senate at $150,757.68—an increase over the expenses of the previous Republican Senate of $58,497.33.

This is a fair illustration of Democratic precept and practice. That party is profuse in economical professions, when out of power; but invariably, when in power, plunges into extravagance. Witness New York and the Democratic Senate of 1871.—Harrisburg Telegraph.

HUGE ROBBERY.

The Government Loses Over a Million Dollars.

The New York Sun tells a story about the loss of the Central American Company's steamer Golden Rule, from New York for Greytown, in May, 1865, in the Carribean Sea, by which it is made to appear that the vessel was designedly steered upon a reef to cover up the robbery of over a million dollars of United States treasure, or at least that this treasure was stolen from a safe on board before the vessel sunk or went to pieces. The money was in charge of special agents for delivery to the Assistant Treasurer at San Francisco. All on board the vessel save one man, named Victor Smith, one of the special agents, were taken to Aspinwall. Smith remained on the reef, having resolved to stay by the wreck until assistance should come. He wrote to the Secretary of the Treasury, and after the lapse of some time wreckers were sent to aid him in an effort to recover the treasure, which he believed to be yet in the safe. In the search, before the safe had been reached, a bundle of 7:30 notes was found, and in examining the different packages it was discovered that from one of them, originally containing $30,000, three notes of $500 each had been abstracted, showing that it had emerged from the safe and been manipulated before the ship went to pieces. The safe was finally found, broken open and empty. When it was broken open, or by whom, it is not certainly known. It was ordered to be sent to Washington, and was shipped for Baltimore, but never reached that city, the Captain of the vessel reporting that it was thrown overboard during a storm on Chesapeake Bay. It is claimed that the parties to the robbery are now living in Maryland.

THE FALL ELECTIONS.

Elections will be held during the fall months in eighteen of the United States and in two territories.

The first State election will be in California, which will choose a Governor and other State officers, members of the Legislature and three members of the Forty-second Congress. The Republican candidate for Governor is Mr. Newton Booth, of Sacramento. The Democratic candidate is Mr. H. H. Haight, the present Governor. The candidates for Congress are:

	Republicans.	Democrats.
1st district	S. O. Houghton,	Lawrence Archer.
2d district	A. A. Sargent,	Jas W. Coffroth
3d district	Jno. M. Coghlan,	George Pierce.

Governor Haight was elected four years ago by about eight thousand majority. In 1869 two Democrats were elected Justices of the Supreme Court by about the same majority. The present legislature has ninety-six members and only twenty-four Republicans, the Democrats having sixteen majority in the Senate and fifty-six in the House. One-third of the Senators hold over, and most of them are Democrats. Notwithstanding these apparent discouragements, the Republicans appear to be confident of success. Mr. Booth is popular, while Governor Haight has lost a good deal of his former popularity. As the Legislature to be elected will choose a United States Senator, the canvass for members is exciting unusual interest. At the last election of Congressmen the First district was carried by the Democrats, and the Second by the Republicans, by large majorities. The Third was carried by the Democrats by a small majority.

The election in Wyoming September 5, is for a Legislature only. The present Legislature is unanimously Democratic.

Maine elects a Governor and all the members of both houses of the Legislature on Monday, September 11. The Republicans have renominated Governor Sidney Perham; who was elected last year by nearly ten thousand majority, in a total vote of ninety-eight thousand. Mr. Charles P. Kimball is the Democratic candidate. The canvass is very dull. The Democrats think that Mr. Kimball will reduce the Republican majority, but they cannot hope to elect him. The other State officers are elected by the Legislature.

New Mexico territory elects a delegate to Congress September 11th. The delegate in the Forty-first Congress was Mr. J. F. Chaves, who was elected by a large majority. He has been renominated, but the party is divided, and Mr. Jose De Sena, another Republican, is running against him. The Democrats have nominated Mr. Jose M. Gallegos.

The people of Nebraska on the 19th of September will vote on the new Constitution which has just been completed by the Convention. If the Constitution should be accepted, State officers will be elected under it on the 6th of November. The Republicans are pretty confident of carrying the State.

The election for four Congressmen in Texas will begin on Tuesday, October 3d, and continue three days. Four members are to be chosen. At the election in 1869 the Republicans carried all the districts except the Second. The vote cast was very light, and since then many changes have taken place. Many Republicans will vote against the regular [illegible] and in two districts independent Republican candidates are already in the field. The candidates, as far as reported, are as follows:

	Democrats.	Republicans.	Ind. Republ'ns.
1st	W. S. Herndon
2d	Jno C. Connor.	A. M. Bryant.	A. B. Norton
3d	D. C. Giddings	W. T. Clark	I. W. Stevenson
4th	Jno. Randolph.

Messrs Conner and Clark were members of the Forty-first Congress.

The people of Rhode Island will vote upon several amendments to the State Constitution on the 9th of October. The amendments abolish the property qualifications for voters and the registry tax, and will no doubt be adopted.

Three of the most important elections will be held on the 10th of October, those of Ohio, Pennsylvania and Iowa. Ohio elects a Governor, State officers and a full Legislature. The Legislature will elect a United States Senator to succeed Senator Sherman. The candidates for Governor are General Edward F. Noyes, Republican, and Colonel George W. McCook, Democrat. The State has been very close for several years, Governor Hayes having been elected by the Republicans in 1869 by a majority of only seven thousand in a total vote of four hundred and sixty thousand, and the Legislature being Republican by only three majority on joint ballot. Last year the Republican majority for Secretary of State was sixteen thousand.

Pennsylvania elects an Auditer, a Surveyor General, and members of the Legislature. The Republican candidate for Auditor is Mr. David Stanton, and for Surveyor General Mr. Robert B. Beath. The Democratic candidates names for the same offices are Mr. William McCandless and Mr. J. H. Cooper. Governor Geary, Republican, was elected in 1869 by the meagre majority of forty-five hundred in a total vote of nearly six hundred thousand. In the present Legislature the Senate has a Democratic majority, and the House a Republican majority. The Republicans seem to have the best prospect for carrying the State.

Iowa will elect a Governor, other State officers, and a Legislature which will choose a United States Senator in place of Mr. Harlan. The candidates for Governor are Colonel C. C. Carpenter, Republican, and J. C. Knapp, Democrat. As the Republicans are sure to elect the State officers, the interest centres in the Legislative contests, in which the Democrats hope to gain by Republican divisions on the candidates for Senator.

West Virginia will elect only a House of Delegates on the 26th of October.

On the 7th elections will be held in Illinois, Maryland, Massachusetts, Minnesota, Mississippi, New Jersey, New York, Virginia and Wisconsin. The parties have not yet held their conventions, except that the Democrats of Maryland have nominated Mr. W. Pinckney Whyte for Governor.

The Lake-Savier Tragedy.

Both parties to the Lake-Savier tragedy in San Francisco a few weeks ago have led lively lives. Mrs. Julia Susan Lake, the victim, was but thirty years of age. She was married at sixteen to a man named Wolf, who left her, and by whom she had two children. She afterward married Joseph J. Coddington, and had three children by him. He was killed in 1866. Two or three years since she married Agustus M. Lake, who is now in Eastern Nevada. Last winter she met Nelson James Savier, the husband of her murderer, and was living with him as his wife, at the Grand Hotel, in Stockton, at the time of the catastrophe. Julia E. Savier, who fired the fatal shots, is a brunette, and about forty years of age. She was divorced from a former husband, Frank Guy Seeley, now at Treasure City, Nevada, and also from Aaron J. Spencer, who is residing in San Francisco. She was married to Savier several years since.

"Brick" Pomeroy in Danger.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 27.—"Brick" Pomeroy was advertised to lecture in Oakland last evening, and it was rumored that Gen. A. H. Lagrange had determined to shoot him on sight because of an article which appeared in The La Crosse Democrat reflecting injuriously on the General's domestic relations. Just as Pomeroy's friends at the hotel were starting for the lecture hall, Gen. Lagrange appeared at the door of the parlor where a number of ladies and gentlemen were sitting. He demanded to see Pomeroy, and attempted to force himself into the room, but was grappled by Col. John Scott, editor of The Oakland Transcript, and a lively fist-fight ensued, the General being eventually removed by his friends. The Sheriff of the county, fearing bloodshed, forbade the opening of the hall, and another room was secured and the lecture delivered to a large audience. Mr. Pomeroy denies the authorship or any knowledge of the article referred to. The trouble has been settled, all parties apologizing.

Gen. A. H. Lagrange is Superintendent of the United States Branch Mint in this city. A series of articles charging him with shameful crimes appeared in one of Pomeroy's papers, and were extensively copied in the Democratic journals of California. Lagrange published numerous affidavits from residents of Wisconsin, in which State the alleged offenses were said to have been committed, completely establishing his innocence of the crimes charged against him.

A Fearful Volcanic Eruption.

LONDON, Aug. 15.—Batavia papers received by overland mail, via India, contain the details of a terrible calamity which has visited the small island of Fagolanda, in the Mayla archipelago, about 50 miles north-east of the island of Celbus.—The volcano of Rawang broke out after a long interval of inactivity; it was preceded by a terrible earthquake which unroofed the dwellings and rent their walls asunder. The eruption was of a fearful character, and several craters opened around the side of the volcano, and continued their action at the same time, the rapidity of the explosions causing an awful roar, which was heard all over the neighboring islands. The outbreak was accompanied by a concussion of the sea, and a wave forty yards in height, issuing with the speed of lightning, swept all the human beings, cattle and horses from the surface of the island. From every creater proceeded flashes of electric lightning and volumes of smoke. Red hot stones were disrupted, and fragments of rock and currents of mud were thrown with immense force high into the air, and the earth was rent open all around the volcano. Besides covering the whole surface of the island, the matter accumulated in some places forming hills several hundred feet high. Amidst the most terrific explosion an island suddenly rose up from the sea. Four hundred and sixteen persons, all Malays, are said to have perished by the eruption. Not a single being on the island could be saved.

—A Kansas man is in jail for letting a neighbor's mule follow him.

—"I'm not used to begging," said a little girl to a lady of whom she had asked alms, "cause only two weeks ago my father was a merchant!" "Why, child, how could he be reduced to poverty so soon?" "My father took a bad two dollar bill at his peanut stand, and it ruined him," sobbed the child.

W. W. STORY, the sculptor, lately told a correspondent of The Methodist why he worked in Rome, and not in America. The strongest of all his reasons was, that in America, one always has the feeling of hurry. "The busy life at home," he says, "drives one too rapidly. You always feel the crack of the whip behind you. too much bustle, yet is laden with the true disciple of art. Your nerves are always overstrained, and you wear out before your ideals are realized.

—While in England Senator Wilson called on John Bright, who bestowed on the distinguished American friendly recognition.

BEAVER SEMINARY

AND

Musical Institute.

Rev. R. T. TAYLOR, D. D., Principal,

OPENS ITS

Seventeenth Annual Session Sept. 12.

Beautiful Grounds suited for out door exercise and recreation

Cheerful Room well furnished and ventilated, warmed with grates.

Principal's Family includes all teachers and pupils from abroad, rendering the Seminary a real home for all.

Vocal and Instrumental Music has been made a specialty for years. This was the first institution in the West to open a special Musical Department. Two Organs and ten Pianos, one full-sized Chickering Grand, give ample opportunity for practice.

COURSE OF STUDY.—English and Classical more extensive than in most Female Colleges. Painting and Drawing taught by a skillful artist.

Two Buildings, on opposite sides of the street, in fine repair, afford opportunities for both sexes and for brothers and sisters to sit at the same table and in the same recitation room, the only intercourse allowed, the departments being entirely distinct. For twelve years the present Principal has been in charge of the school, and it is safe to say that wherever it is known it is favorably known and that it has the fullest confidence of thoughtful men. EMANCIPATION OF OUR WIVES AND DAUGHTERS.

THE DRUDGERY OF THE WASH TUB ABOLISHED.

READ! READ!! READ!!!

The following testimony from substantial and well-known residents of this vicinity.

We do hereby certify that we have used the washing fluid prepared by Mr. Scott, and that it fully meets all that is claimed for it; removing the necessity for wash boards, washing machines, or rubbing largely, economizing time, labor, and money, and saving the wear and tear of clothing incidental to the old process. We most cheerfully recommend its use to the public.

It economizes time, reducing the labor of a day to that of an hour; it economizes strength, as it obviates the drudgery of the wash-tub; it economizes money in saving labor, soap and clothing a clearness and whiteness absolutely unattainable by any other process; it will not Fade, Rot, or in any way Injure the color or texture of the cloth.

Our Agents are authorized to refund the money wherever it fails to come up to these representations. Consult your interest and give it one fair trial.

VII. Hay and straw for stock will be furnished free, and grain at cost price, and an abundance of water will be on the grounds for all purposes.

VIII. No premium will be paid until October 1st, 1871, and all premiums sent for will be paid only on a written order to the Treasurer, (Isaac N. Atkins), to be retained by him as a voucher for the same. In all cases premiums are to be receipted for to the Treasurer.

IV. All persons having horses to train in the Ring, are required to show their certificates of membership.

V. Each horse or colt (except those engaged in hauling articles to the Fair, which shall not remain), will be taxed 25 cents each, a pair of horses—one owner—in harness or otherwise, 40 cents.

The Board of Managers, which includes officers, will be present on the grounds, and will be pleased to give information to competitors or others desiring it.

The Secretary of the Society will be ready to receive entries for two weeks previous to the Fair and would request all who can, to make application before the Fair, as it may facilitate arrangements that may be made for their accommodation.

In presenting the foregoing "List of Premiums," the Board wish to call attention to the fact that it has undergone a thorough revision and correction, and invite a careful perusal, feeling that in variety and extent it is not surpassed by any other County Society in our State. Taking these facts into consideration we invite all to compete, hoping that we may have an exhibition which will prove alike creditable to our Association, and to the agricultural interest of our county.

Whenever you hear a man running down a newspaper, you may rest assured and be right ninety-five times in a hundred, that it is because the editor would not allow himself to be made a tool of, in the interest of that particular individual, or his associates.

Small-pox.—The Pittsburgh papers report cases of small-pox as on the decrease in that city. It seems to us a very appropriate time for a suggestion to our own authorities to take some measures for having our streets, alleyways, &c., renovated. This extremely warm weather is very favorable for the spread of disease. A little lime for disinfecting purposes would perhaps not be amiss.

Death of one of the Officers of the Economy Society.—On Tuesday of last week, Mr. Jacob Bauer, one of the leading members of the Economist community, died at that place. He was one of the trustees or directors of the society, and was held in high esteem not only by the members of the community, but by all with whom he became acquainted. He was over seventy years of age. Thus one after another, these thrifty inoffensive, and upright citizens are passing away.

Substantial Present.—During the absence of the editor and family last week, the Messrs. Davidson, of Sharon Flouring Mill, left a sack of their superfine family flour at his dwelling. We found it—on our return—as usual, of the best quality and very opportune. Thanks, gentlemen, for your courtesy rendered in so substantial a manner. These little attentions are gratifying, and go far to smooth the roughness of an editor's path. We advise the public to purchase their flour of the Messrs. Davidson.

CARPETS! CARPETS!!—I am now closing out my stock of carpets, notwithstanding the advance in wool, at cost prices. B. Mulheim, Bridgewater, Pa. Aug30w.

Terrific Storm.—A terrific wind storm visited Frosty Run, Greene county, last Wednesday afternoon, blowing down corn and fences, overturning hay stacks and twisting off trees as if they were reeds. Considerable hail with thunder and lightning contributed to make the storm more alarming. Nobody hurt.

Severe Storm.—A telegraphic dispatch, on Friday last, from Crestline, Ohio, reports a destructive storm there, on the afternoon of that day, of wind, rain, and hail. Trees and houses were blown down. When girls are taught at the mother's knee, at the home fireside, in school and in society, that it is as disgraceful for them to be loafers as it is for their brothers, we shall have girls demanding and getting that thoroughness of mental and techinal training which is needed in the successful pursuit of any employment, and not before. We shall have a standard then for scholarship, and women will look upon education as something better than mental ruffles and furbelows, or as a mere means of enabling them to support themselves in genteel independence until they can marry, and we shall hear no more of lack of employment for women.

WE invite our friends to call and examine our stock before purchasing elsewhere. Orders carefully and promptly filled John Stevenson's Sons & Co., 93 Market street, Pittsburgh je7.1y

A romantic pair were blessed with a number of daughters. The eldest was called Caroline, the second Madeline, the third Eveline, the fourth Angeline: when lo! the fifth made its appearance, and no name could be found with the desired termination. A Lady says she knows a man who prayed night and morning, preached on Sundays, and was a rich farmer beside. His wife milked the cows in all sorts of weather, cut most of the wood, built the fires, churned, economized, and died of consumption. He put a weed on his hat, tried to resign himself to the "dispensation of Providence," when he ought to have been tried for woman-slaughter in the first degree, and sentenced to chop wood and milk cows in the rain all the rest of his life.

Quite a heavy fall of rain occurred in this vicinity on Friday and Sunday last. It was much needed for corn, potatoes, buckwheat, and the fruit crops, which had been retarded in growth and prevented from properly maturing by the preceding drought. It also swelled the river to some extent, thereby facilitating commerce.

ORANGE BLOSSOMS, FRESH AND FADED. —BY T. S. ARTHUR. Philadelphia: J. M. Stoddard & Co.

FOR more than a quarter of a century Mr. Arthur has maintained a prominent and leading position among authors. His books have had a wide circulation both in America and Europe. His writings possess peculiarities that endear them to all good people. They are full of beautiful truths, and are designed to awaken and keep alive the tenderest affections of our nature, to strengthen virtue, to increase domestic joy, and to sweeten home life by the abiding presence of mutual trust and love.

In this new volume he gives us a series of life-pictures drawn with that skill and power which is peculiarly his own; never weak, always deeply in earnest and frequently intense in his dramatic effects, he has brought to the subject here discussed his subtlest discrimination and highest effort. Men and women bound by the conjugal tie are brought before the reader and he looks down into their lives and sees the pulses of feeling—sees in some cases the "little foxes" at work "spoiling the tender vines," and in other cases the peace and rest and joy of married hearts.

At this time, when so many talented writers are putting forth false and pernicious views of marriage, thereby doing untold social injury, "Orange Blossoms," comes as a true and healthy book, and its wide circulation cannot fail to do a large amount of good.

As a suitable gift to the newly married, or those contemplating marriage, this work cannot be too highly recommended.

The volume is handsomely printed and elegantly bound, and contains a fine steel portrait of the author besides many illustrations from original designs by Schoessele and Bensell. It is sold only by agents. To active men and women it offers a rare chance for a lucrative business, and we would advise all wanting employment to apply to the publishers for an agency.

PUBLIC NOTICE is hereby given that, on and after May 6th, and until the 1st of September, the County Commissioners will meet at their office in the borough of Beaver, only on Saturdays of each week. [mak3tf] JOHN M'GOUN, Clerk.

Women as Jurors—A Husband Rendered Desperate.—An outraged husband at Cheyenne, Wyoming Territory, where female suffrage and the political and social appurtenances pertaining thereto are recognized, denounces the female jury business through the Cheyenne Leader, and in justification offers a pertinent scrap from his domestic history. His wife was summoned, and empanneled as a juror in an important case. When night came, the case not being concluded, the husband applied to the court to have his wife sent home, as there were several small children there requiring her attention—the smallest, in fact, being in a starving condition, owing to the fact that it had not been habituated to the use of the bottle. But the husband's request was denied. The Judge said the jury could not be separated. The husband then requested permission to send the infant to the mother. This was also refused, on the ground that the law does not permit a thirteenth person in the jury room, and there is no statue to show that an infant in arms is not a "person" within the intent and meaning of the law.

The desperate husband then attempted to induce the court to send all the jurors to his house for the night; but the effort was a failure, and the husband was informed that quarters had been provided his wife at the hotel, and that if he wished to speak to her for a moment he would have to take the place of the cook. The husband went home. How he got through the night is not told; but when he learned the next day that the trial was likely to last a week, he straightway proceeded to employ the best looking housekeeper and cook in the county. At last accounts his wife was still on the jury.

It seems that genuine beer or ale is as hard to find as pure wines or liquors. Not only are malt or hop beers largely adulterated, but great quantities of beers are made without any malt or hops at all. It is said that many tons of that poisonous drug, Cocculus Indicus, are imported into the country every year, which is almost exclusively used by brewers and saloon keepers in adulterating beer. Two barrels of beer are converted into three, it is said, by the aid of the brewer's druggist, who supplies the ingredients for that purpose. Sugar, honey, molasses and liquorice are used for malt; alum, opium, gentian, quassia, aloes, cocculus indicus, amara, tobacco and flax for hops; saltpetre, jalap, salt, maranta, green copperas, marble-dust, oyster shells, egg shells, sulphate of lime, hartshorn, shavings, nut-galls, potash, soda, etc., to prevent souring. The beautiful cauliflower head often comes from green vitriol, alum and salt. The smack of age and the tingle to the palate often comes from alum, and new beer is made old in a few hours by oil of vitriol.

Proclamation by a Committee of Ladies.—The following proclamation by a committee of ladies who have suffered from the evil complained of, we find in the Gallion (O.) Review:

WANTED!—150 Young men, more or less, of all shapes and sizes, from the tall and graceful dandy, with hair sufficient on his upper lip to stuff a barber's cushion, down to the little, bowlegged, freckled-faced, carrot-headed upstart. The object is to form a corps to be in attendance at the close of divine service each Sabbath evening, to stare at the ladies as they leave church, and to make delicate and gentlemanly remarks on their persons and dress. All who wish to enter the above corps will appear on the steps of the various church doors next Sunday evening, when they will be duly inspected, their names, personal appearance and quality of brains registered in a book kept for that purpose. To prevent a general rush, we will state that no one will be enlisted who possesses any intellectual capacity above that of a well-bred donkey.

Signed, COMMITTEE OF LADIES for the suppression of an intolerable nuisance in Gallion.

The Supreme Court of Pennsylvania.—The fall term of the State Supreme Court for the Western District, to be held in Pittsburgh will commence on the first Monday of October, instead of the third Monday as heretofore. The first two weeks will be devoted to cases from Allegheny county, and on the third Monday the regular list will be taken up. The fifth and sixth weeks will also be occupied in hearing cases from Allegheny county as formerly. By this arrangement Allegheny county will have four weeks altogether to its business.

The list so far comprises about one hundred and fifty cases, one hundred of which are new cases, the remainder being remnants. One hundred and twenty are from Allegheny county, forty-nine of which are old cases. It will be seen that more than two-thirds of the cases on the lists are from Allegheny county, hence the necessity of giving it additional time.

Pennsylvania's Acres.—The records in the Surveyor General's office at Harrisburg show that the State of Pennsylvania contains 11,515,965 acres of cultivated land, 5,740,664 acres of woodland, and 737,371 acres of unimproved land.

Struck by Lightning.—On Wednesday of week before last, a valuable horse standing under a locust tree in the pasture field of James Bell, of Brighton township, this county, was struck by lightning on that day and killed.

Prohibition County Convention.—The friends of temperance and all persons who favor the prohibition of the rum traffic by law, and who indorse the proceedings of the Harrisburg Convention of August 9, 1871, are requested to meet in Convention at the Court House in Beaver on Monday evening, September 4, 1871, at 7½ o'clock, to nominate persons to be supported at the coming election for county officers, and such other business as may be presentend.

Let every township be represented.

A. BESTWICK, Ch'n Co. Com'ttee.

In speaking of this movement last week the New Brighton Press says:

Some of the "prohibitory" men assert that the "temperance ticket" will receive sixty votes in New Brighton. Another rumor says it will get fifty votes in Beaver Falls; and we are told that the more sanguine of the "new departure" advocates are so bold as to declare their belief that New Brighton will give them one hundred ballots.

Camp Meetings are evidently again growing in favor among the people. For a number of years past they were at a low ebb, and many supposed they would soon be numbered with the things of the past. But recently they have taken an "upward turn," and nearly every person now seems to think that a week or two's worship in the leafy grove is not only conducive to a higher state of morality, but an excellent means of restoring health. That people generally look upon them with more favor now than before the war may be seen in the fact that twenty of these meetings will be held this year within the limits of the Pittsburgh Conference, while we doubt if ever one-half of this number were held during any previous year on the same territory.

Burglary.—The dwelling house of Mr. W. W. Williamson of West Middlesex, Mercer county, was entered by thieves on Sabbath night, the 20th inst., and a valuable silver watch, and a pocket book containing sixty-five dollars in gold and currency, were taken from Mr. A. W. Porter. A pocket book and a pair of boots were also taken from Mr. W. W. Morrison. Both of these gentlemen are boarding with Mr. Williamson, and were in their rooms at the time the theft was committed. On the same night, Mr. J. C. Livingston had $250 and his watch stolen from his bed room. The house of W. W. Risher was also entered, but Mr. R. hearing the noise of a falling curtain which they displaced in getting in at the window, awoke, and the thieves fled. No clue, as yet, has been obtained as to who are the perpetrators.

The First Annual Fair of the Central Agricultural Society of Mercer county will be held at Mercer on Sept. 6th, 7th and 8th 1871. They have a large and commodious Fair Ground, well supplied with water, a well graded track for the exhibition of horses, and their list of premiums is comprehensive and liberal. The first day will be devoted to entries; the 2d, to the exhibition of articles and stock other than horses. Sweepstakes and trotting on the 3d day. A list of premiums may be obtained by addressing Secretary S. H. Miller, Mercer, Pa. We return acknowledgements for a complimentary ticket.

There is a story told of a self-willed deacon, who was always on the wrong side and ludicrously stubborn. When the temperance reform was in full feather, and the question was discussed in the church of which he was an officer, he, as a matter of course, opposed it. He would not sign the pledge; he would not consent to its presentation in the Sunday school; he objected vehemently to the distribution of tracts. One day, in the presence of a full house, one of the members of the church made the case of the deacon a subject of prayer. He said: "O Lord! if thy servant, our brother, continues his opposition to us, wilt Thou, in thy tender mercies, remove him from the church militant below to the church triumphant above?" "I won't go!" thundered the indignant and obstinate deacon.

Rattlesnakes.—The Bedford Inquirer says, on last Saturday Messrs. Isaac Wentz and Isaac Corl of Pavia, Union township, this county, very unexpectedly embarked in the snake trade and for a short time drove a first-class wholesale business. They were engaged at work on Mr. Wentz's premises and disturbing the slumbers of a huge rattlesnake received the usual warning. Upon looking around they found the reptile ready for battle. It took but a moment to dispatch him, but our friends learned that this one was only the advanced guard of a regular den, for a short distance in front of them five snake heads protruded from a hollow log. As they approached the snake fort the defendants drew in, but kept up a terrible rattling. The next thing in order was to split the log. This accomplished, revealed to our heroes a crawling, yellowish brown colored, horny jointed mass of snakes—and now the fun began. One by one their snakeships fell beneath the well directed clubs, until the number slain amounted to thirty-nine, and with the one previously killed forty. Of the thirty-nine in the log, six were old ones and thirty-three young ones, varying in length from fifteen to twenty inches. The truth of this story, snaky as it appears, is vouched for by very reliable parties. There were snakes enough in that one log for a Democratic mass meeting.

Accident.—On Saturday evening of week before last, Jonathan Kale, living about three and a half miles north-east of Washington, Pa., on the farm of Wm. Quail, in North Strabane township, met with a mishap that it is thought may prove fatal. At about six o'clock p. m., Kale started from town for home on horseback, somewhat intoxicated, after getting about a mile and a half from town, he fell to the ground and his foot becoming fastened in the stirrup the horse took fright and ran with the man dangling in the stirrup for about two hundred yards when the girth broke and released him. Mr. Munce, who happened to witness the occurrence, hurried to his relief, and procuring assistance had him carried to his own residence where everything was done for his comfort until the arrival of Dr. Dougherty who had been sent for. An examinotion showed that a number of his ribs had been crushed in, some of which, perhaps, penetrated the lungs, his head and face were terribly mangled, and he was otherwise badly injured.

A writer on health, truthfully says: Habitual overwork is simple slow suicide. A man may stand it for a few years, but eventually it will overpower him. The man who does a fair amount of physical or mental labor daily, who eats his meals regularly, masticates his food properly, devotes a reasonable number of hours in the twenty-four to refreshing sleep, and when he leaves his place of business, leaves business cares behind him, is the one whose chances of extended life are best, and who, in the long run, will achieve the most.

Accident.—A serious accident occurred in Mercer, Pa., on Tuesday, by which Mr. Robert Maxwell, of Coolspring, came near losing his life. He was driving a young team, and as he started down Pitt street hill his neck-yoke came off the tongue, letting the wagon against the horses. They started to run, throwing Mr. Maxwell against the stone steps in front of Mr. Pierce's residence, inflicting a severe cut across the head, and in other ways bruising and injuring him. There were two other men in the wagon with him, but they jumped, and escaped without serious injury.

A serious affray occurred in Kelly's saloon, Sharon, Mercer county, on Saturday evening, in which the proprietor was cut with a knife by a man named O'Brien. The wound inflicted was across the side of the face and neck; was about three inches long and an inch deep. The perpetrator with another fellow who attempted his release, were lodged in jail on Sabbath morning.

Festival.—The Fair & Festival held at the Grand Jury room of the Court House, on Thursday evening last, by the scholars of Class No. 9, Presbyterian Sunday School, was well attended, and proved an eminent success. The amount cleared was $36 over and above all expenses.

The citizens of Franklin, Venango county, Pennsylvania, without distinction of party, having invited President Grant to visit the oil region, he has replied by accepting their invitation, and proposes the 15th of September as the probable day of his arrival. It is the intention of the President to break up his establishment at Long Branch for the summer about that time; then to go via the oil region to Washington, Pa.; thence to Cincinnati, Ohio, to pay his father a visit, before returning to the capital.

The Sharon, Mercer county, Driving Park association advertise a fall meeting, on the 21st, 22d and 23d of next month. They offer premiums amounting to $2,000, which it is expected will bring some good horses. They have a new ground and a half mile track.

The Mercer Dispatch of last week says: "We hear of a chap in a neighboring township, who enclosed a dollar to a New York swindler for directions how to write without pen or ink. He received in reply, printed in good sized type, this:—'Use a lead Pencil.'"

Almost a Fatal Accident.—During the early part of last week Mr. Oliver Weigle of Raccoon township, while engaged in attending a threshing machine, had his clothing caught in some part of the machinery and was badly bruised and sprained before the machine could be stopped. We believe, however, no bones were broken, and at last accounts he was able to be about again.

AN Irishman called at a drug store to get a bottle of Johnson's Anodyne Liniment for the Rheumatism; the druggist asked him in what part of the body it troubled him most, "Be me soul," said he, "I have it in ivory houl and corner er me."

Fatal Casualty.—A fatal accident happened to a son of Mr. Alexander Devore near Munntown, Washington county, on Monday the 24th inst. A threshing machine was in operation on Mr. Devore's farm at the time, and the son, a lad of perhaps twelve years of age—being about to start for some water for the hands, passed close to the shaft connecting the horse power with the thresher, when he was caught and whirled around at a fearful rate, receiving such injuries before the thresher could be stopped, as resulted in his death in the course of an hour or so after the sad occurrence.

FOR loss of cud, horn ail, red water in cows, loss of appetite, rot, or murrain in sheep; thick wind, broken wind, and roaring, and for all obstructions of the kidneys in horses use Sheridan's Cavalry Condition Powders.

Reduction of Price.—Fred Daubler having taken into consideration the late reductions in the price of beef cattle, and the scarcity of money, has concluded to make a deduction of 2 cents per pound on meat at his butcher-shop, or from wagon, on delivery for cash down. We trust the other butchers of this vicinity will follow Fred's example. If they do not, it is easy to see who will command the custom.

It may not interest anybody in this immediate vicinity to know that the New York police are preparing a full list of the names of all persons who have at any time sent money to New York to buy counterfeit money. The names will be published and sent all over the country. If there is, however, any one here who has sent money there, who wants his name published beforehand as a mean swindler of his neighbors, he can leave his name at this office and we will try to accommodate him.

Fire in East Williamsport.—A disastrous fire broke out in East Williamsport, Washington county, on Saturday 18th inst, by which eight frame dwellings, occupied by eleven families—coal miners and employees of Culbertson & Co., paper manufactures—with the greater part of their contents were consumed. The fire originated from a spark from the paper mill alighting on a straw pile which was standing close to it and thence communicating to the dwellings. As soon as the fire was discovered the citizens hurried to the scene and by concentrating all their energies on the mill saved it, but, sad to relate, while this was being done, eleven families were rendered homeless, with the loss of nearly all their worldly effects. The East Williamsport coal railway also took fire but was torn down in order to arrest the spread of the flames. We did not learn whether there was any insurance or not.

The Erie Annual Conference holds its next session at Meadville, commencing on the 30th inst. Bishop Simpson will preside. Lay delegates will be admitted for the first time. At a meeting of the official members of the M. E. Church, of Franklin, August 12th, Hon. J. S. McCalmont was elected delegate, and a resolution asking Rev. John Peate be returned to that station for the next Conference year, passed unanimously. This action of the Board receives the hearty second, not only of the membership of the church, but of the entire community, and it is earnestly hoped that the "powers that be" will see proper to grant a wish so emphatically expressed, and return Rev. Peate to that station.

A savant has discovered with a microscope that when we pour milk into a cup of tea, the albumen of the milk and the tannin of the tea instantly unite and form leather, or minute flakes of the very same compound which is produced in the texture of the tanned hides, and which makes it leather as distinguished from the original skin. He consequently estimates that, in the course of a year, a tea-drinker of average capacity imbibes enough leather to make a pair of shoes.

Sad Accident.—At 12 o'clock on Saturday last, while three sons of Henry Cole, Wayne township, this county, were out in the field hauling stone with a team of horses, an unfortunate accident befell two of them, one losing his life thereby. The facts of the case are these: All three of the young men were having a playful tussle, as they frequently had, when they fell on their knees in close proximity to the horses' heels, suddenly frightening one of the animals, causing it to kick with great force, with feet newly shod. Two of the young men received kicks in the head; one of them, Peter, having his skull badly crushed, causing his death on Monday last, he having remained insensible from the moment of receiving the injury. George, the other injured brother, though severely cut and bruised about the head, escaped with whole bones, and will recover. The third and younger brother was not hurt. The horse that gave the fatal kick was an old, quiet, steady farm horse, and heretofore allowed any kind of privileges to be taken about its heels.—Waynesburg Republican of August 23d.

About the Killing of Some Sheep.—On last Friday a sheep killing case was arbitrated in this place. The facts, as near as we can arrive at them, are these: Sometime during last winter, two dogs owned respectively by Messrs. Joseph and Samuel Lawrence, of South Beaver township, made a raid on Mr. Samuel Taylor's sheep fold in the same township, killing and wounding twenty-nine of his flock. There seems to have been no difficulty in fastening the slaughter upon the dogs referred to, and Mr. Taylor agreed to compromise with their owners if they would pay him $17.50 each. Joseph Lawrence paid his part of the damage, but Samuel declined "coming down" with the other $17.50, hence a suit was brought against him before a Justice of the Peace for the amount claimed by Taylor, and the claim was sustained by the decision of the magistrate. Lawrence appealed and the case was arbitrated, as we have already stated, in Beaver on last Friday. The arbitrators were William Johnston, Milton Reed and Joseph Hall, all of Beaver. Both parties had attorneys. After hearing the testimony, and listening to all the whys and wherefores, the arbitrators awarded Taylor the sum of $27. It is possible an appeal will again be taken.

Festival.—The ladies of Rev. Smith's congregation will hold a Festival in the Presbyterian Church, at Freedom, Thursday evening, August 31, 1871.—Proceeds for the benefit of the church. All are invited to attend.

GOLDEN FOUNTAIN PEN.—Something new and novel. Be sure and read the advertisement in our paper headed, "Greatest Invention of the Age." We believe the Golden Fountain Pen is unsurpassed. A good pen is a necessity to every man, woman and child. Agents, here is a chance to make money in introducing a good and saleable article. jan25;1y

Mr. W. R. Nair. a thrifty farmer of Big Beaver township, and upwards of fifty years of age, informed us the other day, that he had never been sued nor sued any one himself during his whole life. This entire freedom from litigation not only shows that he is a peacably disposed person, but that he is prompt in all his dealings with his follows. We only regret that the country is not filled with just such people.

The Rev. John Spencer, recently from Oregon, whither he went 15 years ago, when the cry was: "Ho! for Oregon!" will tell us on Thursday evening, Aug. 31st, at 7 o'clock, in the Methodist Episcopal Church, much that will interest his audience. Come and hear for yourselves. No charge, only a collection made for his benefit.

WE REFER to the advertisement of M. Schiff, under the head of "Wanted," in our issue to-day, and would add that this is a rare chance for a lady in needy circumstances to make a comfortable living. To earn two or three dollars a day is a great help to any family, and from what we have seen of this Knitting Machine we think it can be easily done.

The Argus is unusually crowded with advertisements this week; but this will doubtless be excused when it occurs so unfrequently, and is so beneficial to the prosperity of the journal. The Court advertisements go out this week, and the Premium List next; after which we shall be able to compensate for the paucity of reading matter during the past two weeks.

Timely Hints.—The following hints to school directors, which we find in an exchange, are good, and we hope they will be acted upon by the several school directors of Beaver county: "Now is the time to re-paint and re-furnish the school houses; quite a number of the houses in the county will admit of this improvement. Let it be attended to at once, that there may be no embarrassment when the time for opening the schools arrives. Fix up your blackboards; have those old broken benches taken out and new ones put in; plug up the knot holes and replace the broken window panes with new ones; have the stove blackened up nicely, polish the pipe too, and pull that old rusty joint out and put in a good one or else you will be smoked to death again next winter; fix the front door step; don't contract with that man to furnish the wood next winter, who last winter hauled that pile of water-soaked red oak to the school-house; get a new Broom at once and get a poker for the stove and a shovel and bucket and have the damper fixed. Have the paper wads taken off the ceiling, and cover the pencil marks, ink splotches and grease spots with a good coat of white wash. Last winter you patched the roof with old board and straw—better put a new roof on right away. Do you intend to get those outline maps and A B C charts? You promised the scholars you would get them in time for the next session for sure. Live up to that promise. You know you can't teach your little boy to bridle a horse if you never show him a bridle—Geography ditto. We could suggest a hundred other little things to be attended to, but these will suffice to call your attention to the importance of fixing up and preparing for your winter school term. It very frequently happens that all these little necessaries are put off until the first week of school and then not more than half done. This is injurious to the school, discouraging to the teacher and pupil at the start. If you want your schools to prosper, you must make your school rooms pleasant and attractive. A word to the wise is sufficient.

MR. EDITOR:—In self-justification for the inquiry which appeared in your paper two weeks since in reference to the "views" of some of the members of the "Beaver County Ministerial Association" on moderate drinking, I beg the privilege of quoting from the report of the Secretary of that association. This report reads as follows: "A variety of views is entertained by the members of the Association—some believing it to be the duty of the church to advocate total abstinence—others that the church should recommend moderate drinking, either as a duty or privilege or both."

The Secretary is careful to purge himself of any complicity with these views by adding the following as his own sentiment: "Won't the Devil laugh when he learns that there are ministerial advocates of moderate drinking?" He very properly continues to express this horror at the idea that "the church should recommend moderate drinking, either as a duty or privilege or both."

When the Association had held a second meeting and the report of its proceedings had been made public and no one seemed to take notice of these, I suppose "private opinions of its members," it occurred to me that attention should be called to those monstrous "opinions."

Does any one feel that his "private opinions" will not endure the gaze of public opinion? if so, he must be the wounded bird.

Not having any "bile" to work off through the public press, I cannot be provoked into a newspaper controversy, and therefore close my communications on this subject with this article.

Yours, &c.,
R. T. TAYLOR.

Beaver, August 25, 1871.

TO THE PUBLIC.

MR. EDITOR:—On Tuesday, August 22d, 1871, two men, one a heavy set man aged about 26 years, and the other some taller and more slender, about 45 years of age, came into New Sewickley and Pulaski townships, Beaver county, and represented themselves as agents for "Short's Double Improved Cutter Bar" for Mowing Machines. They desired to establish local agencies, and earnestly solicited us to act in that capacity. We finally consented to do so, and attached our signatures to papers which we have since been led to believe may be so cut as to make said papers read like common promissory notes. Now, therefore this is to notify all persons that if such notes exist they are frauds, and have been obtained without our knowledge or consent, and their payment will be resisted by all lawful means.

We have been informed by reliable persons that two men answering to the description of the parties above referred to, operated in the vicinity of Youngstown a short time ago; and that in every instance where a farmer's signature was signed to what he supposed to be a simple article of agreement, finally turned out a promissory note. This was done by cutting off one end of the paper, and in this way making it read entirely different from what it did when the name was attached.

RELIGIOUS.

The ministers of Sharon, Mercer county, have resorted to street preaching, in order to reach the "worldlings" who will not attend church. Rev. B. K. Ormond inaugurated the system, in front of the Shenango House, on Saturday afternoon, last.

Providential Care.—Who is it that waters fields of corn upon the Sabbath morning as the Saturday night? Who is it that makes the grass to grow in Sabbath sunshine as well as amid Saturday's rains? Who is it that bears the cry of the raven on Sunday morning and feeds it? Who is it that keeps up the pulsations of the heart, from which if God were to withdraw his finger for a moment, each heart would be instantly still and life would depart? In our hospital wards and sick rooms, in the broken limb where the bone is gradually united, in the severed muscle, where a mediatorial substance is put forth that rejoins it; in the health that returns to the withered frame—in all these our Father worketh hitherto, on Saturday and Sunday, and on all days.—Cumming.

The Phillipsburg Camp Meeting.

MR. EDITOR:—As you enjoyed the privilege of being at the recent camp meeting on Raccoon, in common with others of us from Beaver, I wish merely to advert to the happy love-feast and sacramental on Monday morning.

From the religious experiences given on that occasion by the old and young, by male and female of various sections of the country, and from the spiritual satisfaction felt under the earnest preaching of the occasion, it must have been evident to all candid observers that happy moments are not unfrequently to be enjoyed by the spiritual Christian, when favored with views of the desirableness of heaven. The celebrated John Howe, once had such a view of heaven, and such a desire to depart, that he said to his wife, "Though I think I love you as well as it is fit for one creature to love another, yet if it were put to my choice, whether to die this moment, or live through this night, and living this night would secure the continuance of life seven years longer, I would choose to die this moment." It's a simple way to heaven, very; said a poor, unlettered man, "if people would but take it." There are only three steps; out of self—into Christ—into glory. Doctor Payson wrote: "Once I had a dream of being transported to heaven, and was surprised to find myself so calm and tranquil in the midst of its happiness, I inquired the cause, and was answered, 'When you were on earth, you were a bottle but partly filled with water; now are you like the same bottle filled to the brim, which cannot be disturbed.'"

Robert Hall and Wilberforce—"My chief conception of heaven," said Hall, "is perfect rest;" "and my idea," said Wilberforce, "is perfect love." Hall was nearly always suffering from bodily pain; Wilberforce enjoyed life, and was all amiability. May not the two combined give us as perfect an idea of heaven as we can well have here? It has been said that there will be three things which will surprise us, when we get to heaven: One, to find many there that we did not expect to find there; another, to find some not there whom we had expected; a third, and, perhaps, the greatest wonder, will be to find ourselves there. We are travelers. A traveler ascends a mountain, he may look back, and see at once the whole line of his ascent; and so from the eternal city of the new Jerusalem above, he may look down and see the whole path of life he has traveled thither. Baxter's great production was his "Saints' Everlasting Rest;" and who can wonder that his idea of heaven, was that of rest, when almost his whole life was one prolonged disease. "Blessed are they that do his commandments, that they may have right to the tree of life, and may enter in through the gates into the City." Rev. 22: 14. M. K. J.

WHAT ARE THEY?

THEY ARE NOT A VILE

FANCY DRINK.

Made of Poor Rum, Whiskey, Proof Spirits and Refuse Liquors doctored, spiced and sweetened to please the taste, called "Tonics," "Appetizers," "Restorers," &c., that lead the tippler on to drunkenness and ruin, but are a true Medicine, made from the Native Roots and Herbs of California, free from all Alcoholic Stimulants. They are the GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER and A LIFE GIVING PRINCIPLE a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the System, carrying off all poisonous matter and restoring the blood to a healthy condition. No person can take these Bitters according to direction and remain long unwell.

$100 will be given for an incurable case, provided the bones are not destroyed by mineral poisons or other means, and the vital organs wasted beyond the point of repair.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism and Gout, Dyspepsia, or Indigestion, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have been most successful. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood, which is generally produced by derangement of the Digestive Organs.

DYSPEPSIA OR INDIGESTION, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the regions of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia.

They invigorate the Stomach and stimulate the torpid liver and bowels, which render them of unequalled efficacy in cleansing the blood of all impurities, and imparting new life and vigor to the whole system.

FOR SKIN DISEASES, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ring-Worms, Scald-Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin, of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters. One bottle in such cases will convince the most incredulous of their curative effect.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul, and your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure and the health of the system will follow.

PIN, TAPE and other WORMS, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. For full directions, read carefully the circular around each bottle, printed in four languages—English, German, French and Spanish.

SELECT MISCELLANY.

—"Corn bread," said an Irish waiter; "we haven't got it; an' isn't it corn bafe you mane?"

—Another wife has poisoned her husband. The salutation among wives has become, "How are you my dear? Where do you buy your poison?"

—Young ladies are now advised not to put too much oil on their hair, for the reason that it is apt to spoil not only the lappel of the coat, but also the vest.

—A daughter of a New York stock broker exults over the fact that she has been to Europe six times, and has never seen the inside of her mother's kitchen.

—Great Britain last year consumed forty-two million pounds of tobacco, or a pound and a half for each one of the population.

—The largest telescope in the world is now being made at Cambridge, Mass., for the government. Three or four years will be required to complete it.

—A fellow tried to hang himself in London not long ago, and the magistrate before whom he was taken very properly ordered him to pay the man who cut him down ten shillings for the job.

—A Hartford horse seizes rats in his mouth when they come to his manger to steal his oats, shakes them like a terrier until satisfied they are dead, and then throws them out of the bin.

—Young lady (indignantly at being brought to the Academy of designs too early:) "Now, I told you, papa, this wasn't the fashionable hour. We'll have nothing but these horrid pictures to look at till the people come!"

A man of superior pomposity was once alluded to by Washington Irving as "a great man, and, in his own estimation, a man of great weight. When he goes to the West he thinks the East tips up."

—A lady had a favorite lap-dog, which she called Perchance. "A singular name," said somebody, "for a beautiful pet, madam.—Where did you find it?" "Oh," drawled she, "it was named for Byron's dog. You remember where he says 'Perchance my dog will howl.'"

—A quarrel on the Boulevard terminated thus, one day recently, to the amusement of the spectators: "Monsieur, you shall give me satisfaction." Reply (amid a peal of laughter) "Monsieur, I cannot. I am a member of the Society for Protecting Animals."

—In the "Life of Banham," an amusing anecdote is told of King, the actor, who met a friend whose name he had forgotten, and took him home to dinner. After several ineffectual attempts to find out his name, King said: "My friend and I have a dispute as to how you spell your name; indeed we have laid a bottle of wine about it." "Oh! with two p's," was the answer.

—A Quaker gentleman riding in a carriage with a fashionable lady decked with a profusion of jewelry, heard her complain of the cold. Shivering in her lace bonnet and shawl as light as a cobweb, she exclaimed: "What shall I do to get warm?" "I really don't know," replied the Quaker, solemnly; "unless thee should put on another breastpin."

—A nicely dressed young gentleman entered a barber shop in a somewhat retired portion of the city a few days ago, for the purpose of getting shaved. The tonsorial artist spat on the brush and proceeded to lather, when he was stopped by the horror stricken customer, who inquired what he meant by spitting on the brush. "Why," said the barber, "ain't you a gentleman?" "Yes," replied the stranger. "Well," said the barber, "that's the way we treat gentlemen; when a rough comes in, we just merely spit on his face."

—Sometimes in after life, when the feet of some wayward man have strayed far away from the home of his youth, and his heart has wandered far from his father's God, some memory of the past, like the sweet, sad melody of the evening chime, may wake long slumbering echoes and open long sealed fountains; and a father's counsels, and a mother's prayers will come up again from the sacred burial places of the past with wondrous power to melt and win the wayward heart.

—A correspondent of the Boston Traveler records the following: "A bright little boy about four years of age, son of a clergyman, was at your correspondent's house one evening, with his parent, and I gave him a couple of five cent pieces; He laid them on the table, and putting his finger on one said: 'This one I am going to give to the heathen, and the other one I am going to keep myself.' He played with them awhile, till finally one of them rolled away and he could not find it. 'Well,' said I, 'my lad, which one have you lost?' 'O,' said he, 'I have lost the one I was going to give to the heathen.'"

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury.

PITTSTON, August 19.—The verdict of the coroner's jury in the case of the mine explosion was rendered at one o'clock this morning. All day yesterday a great crowd thronged the streets, anxiously waiting to hear the verdict. The jury find that the men were suffocated by noxious gases forced down upon them by the explosion or the caving in of the roof. They believe that the accident would have been averted had there been strict compliance with the requirements of the ventilation laws, and that while the owner of the mine, Mr. Tompkins, is censurable for his negligence, yet he is exonerated on account of his illness for many months, preventing his attendance at the mine, and Inspector Bleuitt is exonerated because his time was too much occupied with legitimate duties.

Imitation of Nature.

Thousands of diseases could be cured if doctors gave close observation to the movements and indications of nature, whose wise and beneficent laws are sure to carry us through; unless contravened by our own meddlesomeness or folly—Dr. Keyser's Lung Cure has been prepared with the full purpose in view to heal the lungs, remove obstructions, purify the blood and cure all those diseases of the lungs which ultimately lead to consumption. It cured one of the former editors of this paper of a cough in one dose. It is a wonderful medicine, and is without an equal even in the cure of consumption in its early stages. If your druggist does not keep it, send five dollars to Dr. Keyser, and he will send four bottles securely boxed, by express, with full directions how to use it. 167 Liberty street, Pittsburgh.

—On Tuesday last, Sheriff Fletcher of Franklin county, and a gentleman from Clarion county, went to Orrstown with the intention of taking into custody a man residing there named Fulton, who had come to that place some months ago with a young lady whom he claimed as his wife, and with whom he has, during his residence at Orrstown, been living. The gentleman from Clarion county represents that Fulton has a wife and family now living in that county, and further that he has swindled him (the Clarion county man) out of about $1,200 in various ways. Fulton, it seems, got wind of the presence of the Sheriff and kept away from home, and since that time has not been heard of. Consequently Sheriff Fletcher returned empty handed, whilst Fulton is "whiling the happy hours away" in some unknown quarter. The rumors concerning him may be considerably exaggerated and we refrain from giving any of them publicity.—Shippensburg Sentinel.

THE SURE ROAD TO SUCCESS;

A WORD TO AGENTS.

There is no scarcity of books to sell. But the great success of an agent lies in his selecting that work which meets the wants of the times, and deals most powerfully with the living issues of the day. The recent efforts of the enemies of Protestantism to banish the Bible from the Public Schools, and the late attempts in the Legislature of New York and Illinois to legalize this outrage upon our civil and religious liberties, have aroused in the minds of all true Protestants a desire to know and have circulated a more thorough knowledge of the intents and purposes of this great organization, which boast they will possess this country before the close of the Nineteenth Century. THE OPEN BIBLE deals with these questions, and the readiness with which the first two editions have been sold is sufficient proof of the interest felt in the book.

BEAVER LADIES' SEMINARY.

THE NEXT SESSION will open SEPTEMBER 12th, 1871, and will be continued for five months.

I have concluded to have two sessions in the year, of five months each, instead of three of three months each, as heretofore.

Many of our best schools are returning to this division of time, and with decided advantage to the pupil. It saves nearly a month of time now lost in vacations and arranging of classes, and gives time to complete in one session many studies now interrupted by the three-term arrangement. The cost is the same—a pupil now paying $10. a session for three sessions, will pay $15. a session for two sessions.

A full corps of experienced teachers will be employed, and our aim will be to secure thoroughness in every branch of study. Pupils in music will be received who do not enter as pupils in other branches, and we hope for even more than our usual success in this department for the coming year.

As the Academy has been closed, I will arrange for the accommodation of all boys and young men preparing for business or for College. As we give a choice of studies to those not intending to graduate, teachers, and those intending to teach, can select the branches specially needed for their work.

ARTIFICIAL TEETH PERFECTED!—T. J. & H. J. CHANDLER have purchased the exclusive right of Beaver county to use Dr. Stuck's Patent by which they can put up Vulcanite as thin as Gold Plate, with a beautiful enameled polish; and so light and elastic as to perfectly adapt itself to the mouth; obviating all that clumsy and bulky condition, so much complained of heretofore; and lessening their liability to break 100 per cent. Indeed, no one seeing it would be willing to wear the old style plate any longer than they could conveniently get them exchanged. All branches of Dentistry performed in the best and most substantial manner. In filling teeth with gold, etc., we challenge competition from any quarter, and can refer to living subjects whose fillings have stood between thirty and forty years. Among the number Hon. John Allison will exhibit fillings we inserted some 35 years ago; the teeth as perfect as the day they were filled. Laughing Gas prepared on a new plan, freeing it from all unpleasant and dangerous effects, making the extraction of teeth a source of pleasure rather than of horror and pain. Prices as low as any good dentist in the State. Office at Beaver Station, Rochester Pa.
